No Important News Except About the Gorilla And That's Not True But It IS Important

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

You put down your cup, pick up the paper and ask, "What has happened in this world since I last read?"

Not much has happened. The earth on which you are traveling, with sweet indifference as to your destination, is more than two millions of miles away from the spot in space at which you last picked up a morning newspaper.

The Germans are said to have conquered the spotty Red outbreak. They seem to have had enough of both kinds of autocracy —from the throne, AND from the gutter.

The "bears" have come up from Florida and are attacking stocks, which faint and fall down a few points.

Having had a pleasant Winter on Florida's sands, nice baths, nice gambling, nice divorces, nice remarriages, the ladies and gentlemen of our high society are back.

The gentlemen who care, as they would truly put it, "Not one damn what happens to the country, as long as they make money," are bearing and knocking down values, while little fools that gamble, betting on the integrity of others, are squirming as usual.

The Supreme Court has handed down three decisions that may or may not be worth one hundred million in income tax to the government—perhaps a great deal more.

Certain profits on increased value of bonds, trust funds, etc., must pay income tax. A little Federal judge is overruled.

Dr. Leray, French scientist, killed by X-ray experiments on his own body, interests the world just before his death with the very UNSCIENTIFIC statement that "a hidden God had doomed him to death for trying to solve the secrets of science."

There is no hidden God—the only God is revealed in every living thing; cloud, thunderstorm, ant hill, and most of all in the sure reward that follows real scientific work.

Madame Curie revealed the greatest secret hidden in matter—the power of radium. No "hidden God" rebuked her. Jenner saved millions of lives by revealing the hidden knowledge of vaccination, and Pasteur, king of useful science, saved endless billions of dollars and millions of lives with his revelations, and no "hidden God" protested.

The only hidden God is ancient superstition that crops up, even in scientific minds, when overwrought with study.

Study American news and you see how hard it would be for a real revolution to get started here. Sympathizers with Ireland denounce the American Legion as the "Anglo-Maniac Legion," because the Legion expelled an enthusiastic Irish-American sympathizer with Ireland. And the American Legion says unpleasant things about the Irish movement. If the Irish wanted a revolution the Legion, probably, would say NO. If the Legion wanted it some other unit in our population, German or Polish or Jewish or plain home product, might say NO. No real revolution without homogeneous population—and that is a long way off here.

Viviani from France, great orator and genuine democrat, has come, as he says, "to listen."

He will hear that this country for the present, is done with European responsibility. We spent forty or fifty billions, sent over three million men, disrupted industry, railroading, cost of living, etc. Now we are tying up the broken ends—not very successfully. We expect Europe, Germany being beaten, to stop fighting, get back to work, or, if she prefers it, to go on fighting and looting, with the certainty that she will get no more men or money from us.

As to payment of Europe's debt, it is for each nation, as for each man, to make known the value that he sets upon his word.

You will travel through (or past) the Stillman case, and realize—for ten thousandth time—how much lawyers owe to human foolishness.

You will read of the strange and horrible espionage case, ukases ordered to dig their own graves or post holes big enough to hold them, to be then knocked on the head and buried, to keep them quiet. Forty, at least, is said to be the number killed on one plantation.

But there is only one piece of news, really interesting, and it is not true. It is a story concocted by the advertising man of the big circus, just come out of its hibernating quarters.

The untrue story is that the gorilla, so rarely seen in captivity, usually feeds his share of peanuts to the great elephant, which he admires and loves.

Absolutely false. No gorilla or other animal ever gives away anything. But it's an important imaginary story, because of its lesson for human beings. Because animals are absolutely selfish, they have remained animals. Because the powerful monsters never helped each other or sympathized with each other to the extent of sacrificing their own welfare, they have remained behind, AND MEN HAVE GONE AHEAD.

Lynam's Wife Blames 'Wicked Woman'

OFFICER'S DESERTED FAMILY IN DISTRESS

Mrs. Lynam Embittered by Devotion Wasted Upon Naval Ensign

Newport, R. I., March 29.—"There's one person more to blame than my husband. That person is the wicked woman who broke up my home and accepted the attentions of a married man, when she knew he was married. I don't know who she is. I never heard her name. I don't want to know who she is. I couldn't bear to hear her name. If I did—I'm afraid of what I would be tempted to do."

In a shabby, upstairs tenement, at the rear of No. 32 Washington street, here Mrs. J. Lynam, wife of the navy paymaster, missing with over $20,000 of government money, so spoke of her sorrow and her shame. For the equally little tenement where the commissioned officer's wife and two children live, in Newport, while he, it is alleged, lived notoriously in Boston, speaks of poverty and pinching economy. Clean, as a newly scrubbed bathtub, however, are the little three rooms. Neat as a new pin. In the immaculate little woman who mourns the great grief of her life, shut in with her youngsters.

"I loved my husband," said Mrs. Lynam, "and how I trusted him! Nobody but God knows how I trusted him. I would never have believed him guilty of taking a penny. And, in all the seven years of our married life, I never knew of his paying any unwarranted attention to any woman. Before me he always held himself above reproach.

The little dark-haired woman is shattered by her grief. She is the born wife and the born mother. At a glance one can see that she would

CALLS MAN WHO BEAT MOTHER "A SKUNK"

Holyoke, March 29.—"Only a skunk of a man would beat his mother," said Judge Hildreth, referring to George E. Ray, of whom officers testified he was pounding his mother when arrested. Then he fined George $15 for drunkenness.

GERMANS CAPTURE 500 LOOTERS IN RUSSIAN GARB

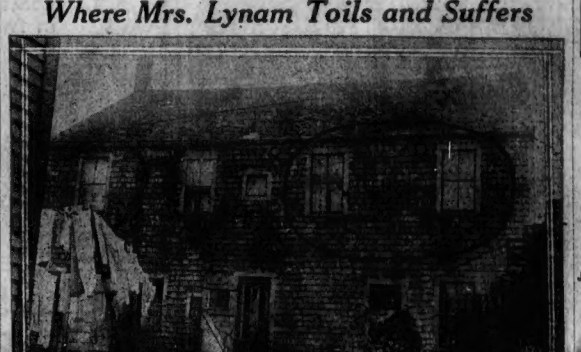
Berlin, March 29.—The security police report the capture of 500 bandits who were plundering property near Ammendorf. The leader wore a Russian uniform and many of the men wore Russian military overcoats. A complete set of military plans for active operations was found upon the leader.

HOLDS INTRUDER FOR ARRIVAL OF POLICE

Providence, March 29.—Richard S. Merman, eighteen years old, of Irving avenue, was arrested charged with entering a house on Peary street with intent to commit larceny. The owner of the house held the young man until the arrival of the police. Merman was held in $3,000 until April 8.

Jim d'Oller, former commander of the American Legion; Colonel Thomas W. Miller of Delaware, recently appointed alien property custodian; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion; Mrs. Henry R. Rea of Pittsburgh; Colonel Milton J. Foreman of Chicago, Colonel Henry S. Berry of Jonesborville, Tenn.; T. V. O'Connor of Buffalo, president of the Longshoremen's Union.

Where Mrs. Lynam Toils and Suffers



A picture that tells the story of the misery the absconding paymaster left behind. The little house in the rear of No. 38 Washington street, Newport, R. I., occupied by four families, one of them the wife and two children of Ensign Lynam. They live in the upstairs corner indicated by the oval. Here the wife struggled to exist while her husband, the dashing naval officer, enjoyed the best in the company of pretty women.

DAWES HEADS BOARD TO AID VETERANS

Roosevelt and Aunt Among Members to Probe War Risk and Vocational Training

Washington, March 29.—The first definite step in the formation of a government policy towards veterans of the World War was taken today by the new administration.

President Harding appointed a committee of nine men and two women to investigate administration of the War Risk Insurance Bureau and the Board for Vocational training, and probe generally into the care and treatment that has been accorded wounded and impaired service men.

Delaware Peaches Killed by Frost

Wilmington, Del., March 29.—The entire Delaware peach and apple crop is believed to have been ruined by high winds, hail, sleet and frost last night and today.

Peach trees that were in blossom yesterday are today blackened as if by fire. Crops of strawberries and other small fruits were ruined.

The damage runs into millions.

Boston and New England today suffered from one of the most remarkable overnight shifts in the history of recorded weather, the mercury dropping from the highest point ever reached on a March 28, to within three degrees of the coldest March 29.

Aided by a strong northwest wind, with occasional thunder storms, thrown in for good measure, the mercury tumbled from a high mark of 73, to a low point of 33, which was reached at seven o'clock today.

On only three other occasions in the history of the weather bureau has the thermometer registered a lower figure on March 29, these being in 1887, when 21 was reached, and 1894 and 1918 when the mark of 32 was recorded.

Today's official forecast promising continued cold for tonight, with fair

SAYS WITNESS THOUGHT RAMEY WOULD DIE

Wouldn't Live if He Were Acquitted, Man Is Quoted as Declaring

Victor Brueton, government witness, who discovered the unconscious form of Mildred Wanamaker, declared that if Frank S. Ramey were acquitted and went back to Wakefield he would not live a month, according to a witness in the trial at East Cambridge today.

This witness, Harry F. Russel of Wakefield, declared that Brueton's statement was made in a conversation with him which took place ten days after the attack on Miss Wanamaker, October 6.

Cross examination by District-Attorney Tuttle failed to shake the witness, who said he was positive that Brueton named Ramey and not Miss Wanamaker.

Russell followed Frank E. Knowlton of Wakefield, the first witness called to the stand when the trial of Ramey on the charge of assault with intent to kill Miss Wanamaker, was resumed.

Knowlton described the ground surrounding the Dudley house in the vicinity of the scene of the assault, where Ramey was said to have been seen on the day of the crime.

George H. Walton, an ex-service man and son of Perley Walton, testified he was present when Brueton drove into his father's yard in Wakefield and announced that a girl had been hurt, apparently by an automobile. He told of going to the scene with his father, and finding the body in the woods.

The witness said the girl's clothing was not disarranged, and that he saw no feathers in the road. He said the tailboard of Brueton's car was used as a stretcher to carry Miss Wanamaker out of the road.

PRESIDENT ENJOYS A WINTRY WALK

Washington, March 29.—Wintry weather in Washington today was to the liking of President Harding.

The President and Brigadier-General Sawyer left the White House early and took a brisk walk through the Mall. "Laddie Boy" the White House Airedale, acted as pacemaker.

FAMOUS SCIENTIST EXPIRES ON TRAIN

John Burroughs, Naturalist, Dies Within a Week of 84th Birthday

Buffalo, N. Y., March 29.—John Burroughs, world famous naturalist, died on a train today while en route from California to his home at West Point.

Death occurred in a Pullman compartment at 8 a. m. when the New York Central train No. 18, known as the New York-New England express, was passing through Kingsville, O.

John Burroughs was born in Roxbury, N. Y., April 3, 1837, the son of Chauncey A. and Amy (Kelly) Burroughs. He received an academic education and was awarded the degree of Litt. D., by Yale in 1910 and Doctor of Humane Letters by Colgate in 1911. He married Ursula North September 12, 1857.

Mr. Burroughs taught school about eight years, and was treasury clerk from 1864 to 1873. From 1873 to 1877 he was national bank examiner, and since that time has devoted his life to literature and fruit culture, on his ancestral farm of 200 acres at Roxbury, N. Y.

He was a member of the American

SECOND VICTIM OF SHOOTING IS DEAD

John F. McCarthy, wounded last Thursday in the South End shooting affray in which John R. (Larry) McLean was killed, died today at the City Hospital.

McCarthy's death followed a battle for his life by hospital physicians, after his mother, Mrs. Mary McCarthy, and his brother, Leo McCarthy, had submitted to blood transfusions.

Mrs. Ova Maude Cornell McCarthy, the West Everett girl who became his bride in a deathbed marriage in the casualty ward last Friday, was at his side.

The nineteen-year-old bride had kept vigil by his bedside from the hour of their marriage until late yesterday, when physicians persuaded her to leave him for a little while and go home to rest.

Mikado Rules U.S. Schools for Hawaiian Japs

The eighth installment of the article on Japanese "invasion" of Hawaii by Joseph Timmons of the Los Angeles Examiner staff is another revelation of how the Japanese refuse to assimilate—in this instance by enforcing Japanese culture in the U. S. schools.

By JOSEPH TIMMONS.

Twenty thousand Hawaiian-born Japanese children are being educated in Japanese schools. Buddhist priests, wives of priests, and teachers from Japan, indorsed as qualified by the department of education in Japan, are their instructors.

Approximately 20,000 more Hawaiian-born children are being educated in the schools back in Japan.

Despite these "citizens" of the United States, possessing in full our rights of citizenship, are growing up thoroughly and unalterably Japanese.

Hawaii cannot suppress nor control Buddhism in the islands. It can suppress the Japanese language schools, but failing of courage to do so, in the face of the hair-trigger arrogance of the Japanese, it is experimenting now with a silly, impossible effort at supervision.

Soldiers Carry Light to Gov. McCarthy

A bill was introduced at the 1919 session of the territorial legislature to regulate these schools. It was

BELIEVE 60 PERSONS INJURED BY BLAST

Tenement Building in Chicago Wrecked by Explosion Possibly Caused by Bomb

By International News Service.

Chicago, March 29.—At least ten persons are believed to have been killed and probably sixty injured in an explosion that wrecked a tenement building at Halstead and Barber streets here today.

The explosion is believed to have originated in a paint store which occupies the lower floor of the factory building. Firemen said the blast may have been caused by a bomb.

Windows for blocks around were shattered and the building crumbled to bits.

Three bodies have been recovered.

BROOKLYN RACIAL WAR FURTHER TANGLED UP

New York, March 29.—Consternation was tossed into Gentile circles of the Linden avenue section of Flatbush today by the announcement that A. Prince, a learned Talmudic scholar and owner of a trucking business, intends to move and sell his modern home to "a refined colored family." "For months they have been calling me and my children 'Kike' and 'Yiddy' he explained. "But now that I have decided to sell and advertised for a refined negro or Italian family they are changing their tune."

GAS DEATH PENALTY BILL BECOMES LAW IN NEVADA

Carson City, Nev., March 29.—Governor Boyle has signed the bill providing for the use of lethal gas in executing the death penalty in this State. It is framed to secure the condemned in an air-tight cell, the air valves of which will be closed and, admitting lethal gas, will be opened while the doomed man is asleep.

ARREST NEWSIES FOR CRYING FORD'S PAPER

St. Louis, March 29.—Charged with disturbing the peace in crying Henry Ford's Dearborn Independent for sale on the streets, three newsboys are under arrest. W. J. Blanchard, of Detroit, agent for the publication, announced he is interested in the test arrested as a test case could be made of the city ordinance.

WOMAN SEVERELY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Miss Nora Garvey, twenty-five years old of No. 76 Pleasant street, Dorchester, was knocked down and severely injured by an automobile owned and operated by Harland F. Brown of No. 32 Franklin street, Framingham, while attempting to cross the street at Kenmore Station of the Elevated. She was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital by Brown, and found to be suffering from a bruised right shoulder and left knee.

ALL 1918 LEGISLATORS, INCLUDIDG COX, TO BE GRILLED

Plans to summons and place on the witness stand every member of the 1918 Legislature, including Governor Channing H. Cox, who was Speaker of the House, were today being considered by the Joint Rules Committee, which is formulating the procedure of the Elevated stock scandal investigation.

It will include, in addition to Governor Cox, Henry G. Wells, who was President of the Senate and is now a Commissioner of Public Utilities; former President of the Senate Edwin T. McKnight, former Speaker of the House Joseph E. Warner, Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, President of the Senate Frank G. Allen and Speaker of the House Benjamin Loring Young.

OTHERS LIABLE TO CALL.

Other members of the Legislature of 1918 still in public life and who would be called as witnesses under the plan include Assistant Attorney-General Jay R. Benton, Building Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson of the City of Boston, Treasurer Commissioner Malcolm E. Nichols, Chairman Herman Hormel of the Republican City Committee of Boston, William J. Foley of the Governor's Council and Charles S. Lawler, head of the City of Boston Printing Department.

Although President Allen of the Senate and Speaker Young of the House are responsible for the adoption by Senate and House of the probe order under which the plans for the investigation are now going forward, it is said that they believe that they and all other prominent officials who were members of the 1918 session should be investigated on the same basis as the most humble and inconspicuous legislator.

It is estimated that about forty members of the 1918 session are also members of the present session and, in order to clear the probe of any suspicion that a "whitewash" is intended, the investigation will be made by a special committee which includes none of the holdovers.

Governor Cox may be especially anxious to appear as a witness before the probe committee because Representative Martin Hays of Brighton made the charge publicly on the floor of the House that he was denied appointment to the Legislative Committee on Street Railways because of opposition to the Elevated.

The Governor's Council will hold its regular meeting on Wednesday and in the hope that the names of 1918 members alleged to have borrowed money on unsecured notes from the closed trust companies with which to speculate in Elevated stock will be ready for submission by Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen.

Hub's Woman Detective Cannot be Constable

Mrs. Angie L. Oakes, Boston's first woman detective, found four of seven members of the City Council in her way when she attempted to become the first woman constable as well. She has been a detective for fifteen years.

"What do you make of it, Watson?" inquired Sherlock Holmes when four of the City Councillors turned thumbs down on her application.

"Well," said Watson, with some hesitation, "there are times when a constable's badge comes in mighty handy to a detective making information."

"Rights," said Sherlock. Three of the City Councillors were gallant enough to believe that she would not misuse the badge, but four were a bit fearful and said so. The ballot was a secret one.

MAN KILLED AS AUTO SKIDS DOWN MOUNTAIN

New York, March 29.—An automobile containing six men and two boys got beyond control as it crossed the summit of the Orange mountains on Mount Pleasant avenue, West Orange, N. J., and before the passengers could leap out it skidded 200 yards down the mountain side and was wrecked against a tree. One of the men, Samuel Carino, fifty years old, of Valley Road, West Orange, was killed.

COLONEL A. G. BULLOCK OF WORCESTER ILL

Worcester, March 29.—Col. A. George Bullock, former president of the State Mutual Life Assurance Company, and now chairman of the board of directors, is seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia at Memorial Hospital. He is seventy-four years old.

FOUR-LEGGED CHICK IN BATCH OF THIRTEEN

Dxbridge, March 29.—One four legged chick out of a batch of thirteen is the record of Biddy, a favorite hen owned by Joseph Bertrand, of the Rindale district. The other twelve eggs hatched out perfectly normal two-legged chicks.

COAL PRICE DROPS $1.25 IN NEW BEDFORD

New Bedford, March 29.—A reduction of $1.25 a ton in egg, stove and chestnut coal is announced by New Bedford dealers, making the new price $14.75. Other grades were reduced $1 a ton.

REDUCTION OF INCOME TAXES PLANNED

Washington, March 29.—A general scaling down of all income taxes as well as the heavy surtax on large earnings, was promised by Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Senator Penrose outlined the plan for revenue and tariff legislation on which Congress will be called to act at the special session beginning April 11.

The Senator declared that he hoped that the Finance committee would be able to begin the preparation of the new tax bills within the next week. The plan, he said, is to draft these measures while the House Ways and Means Committee is working on the tariff. In order that the revenue legislation will be ready for Congress as soon as the tariff is out of the War.

While still in a formulative stage, Senator Penrose asserted that the new program of Federal taxation contemplates the abolition of the excess profits tax entirely and "the reduction of income taxes all along the line to the collection point." This is the point which is determined as likely to yield the greatest revenue.

AUTOS KILL TWO WOMEN; HURT ANOTHER

Latter and Newton Man May Die of Injuries; Two Drivers Arrested

Two women were killed and a man and a woman many die as the result of automobile accidents in Malden, Wellesley Hills, Newton and Boston. Two operators were arrested by the police, one in the Malden fatality, the other in the Boston accident.

The dead are:

Mrs. E. M. Simmons, forty-two years old. No. 84 Pleasant street, Malden.

Mrs. Irma Jensen, thirty-two years old. No. 50 Elm street, Wellesley Hills.

The injured are:

Russell C. Carter, thirty years old, No. 79 Churchill street, Newtonville, condition critical.

Unidentified colored woman, about forty-five years old, believed to live in Boston.

Mrs. Simmons was struck on Washington street, Malden, within the railroad station, by an automobile operated by Carl H. Stratton of No. 81 Washington street, Malden. She was crossing the street when struck and the machine passed over her body. Mrs. Simmons died on arriving at the hospital. Stratton furnished $1,000 bail for appearance in court today.

Mrs. Jensen, wife of Charles A. Jensen, Boston wool merchant, was almost instantly killed when her automobile collided with a car on Washington street, near Denton road, Wellesley Hills, while returning from a funeral. William M. Gorman, her chauffeur, escaped injury as did the occupants of the other car, owned and operated by George A. Thompson of No. 46 Chester street, Allston. A forward wheel of the Jensen car ripped off a rear wheel of the other. The Jensen car then turned over on its side. It was stated that the Jensen car was headed toward Framingham and that the Thompson car turned out to pass a car ahead.

Russell C. Carter, who is at Newton Hospital with a fractured skull and reported in a critical condition, was found lying unconscious at Willwood and Watertown streets, Bundling that he had been carrying which were scattered about the street indicated that he had been struck by an automobile.

The unidentified colored woman, who is at City Hospital in a critical condition, was struck at Kenmore Station by an automobile operated by Jerome E. Sweet, Connon's call Terrace, Brighton, who is held by the police.

FINAL BUILDING STRIKE PARLEY UNDERWAY

State Arbitration Board Holding Conference to Try to Restore Peace

What was expected would prove to be the final conference on the building strike before the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration was held today.

Representatives of the United Building Trades' Council and the Building Trades' Employment Association were reported making an earnest effort to reach a compromise, but without much prospect of success.

Governor Cox last week said that unless some agreement were reached today he would take independent action looking to an end of the strike. This action, it was indicated, would consist of the appointment of a committee to investigate the situation in the interest of the general public.

Soviet Offers to Trade Captives

By International News Service.

Moscow (By Wireless to Berlin), March 29.—The Soviet government is willing to release Emmet Kilpatrick of Alabama, who was captured during the Red drive against General Baron Wrangel's army on the Crimean front, on condition that "Jim" Larkin or Benjamin Gitlow, two American Communists, are pardoned by the New York State authorities, it was declared today in official circles. Soviet officials said they would regard this as a fair exchange.

Both Larkin and Gitlow were arrested in the anti-Red raids carried out in New York city last year by the Department of Justice. Both were sentenced to prison, where they are now serving their terms.

WINES VALUED AT $250,000 ARE SEIZED

New York, March 29.—Prohibition agents descended on No. 139 Bowery and seized $250,000 worth of wines—Spanish port, tokay and sherry. Right next door nestled the place, at one time, of the famous Steve Brodie —he who took a chance.

The raided company is known as the Menorah Wine Corporation, successor to one of the biggest importing and exporting liquor houses.

Poor Management Alone Responsible for Railway Conditions, Lauck Declares

By International News Service.

Chicago, March 29.—Inefficiency of railroad management, rather than the national agreements fixing wages and working conditions of employes, is responsible for the financial plight of the railroads, W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist of the railroad labor organizations, declared in a statement of the United States Railway Labor Board today. Lauck today began the presentation of labor exhibits before the board.

"The root of the railroad difficulty," Lauck declared, "is not in national agreements, but in the inadequacies of management. Conservatively stated if railroad management was characterized by reasonable efficiency and had available for its use a proper amount of credit or capital, labor costs would have shown a radical decline under national agreements and savings in operating expenses of at least $1,000,000,000 annually would be made."

Railroads Lauck charged in his conclusions, are "consciously and deliberately taking advantage of a temporary industrial depression to destroy human standards, sanctioned by thought and practices of the leading industrial nations of the world."

LITVINOFF MAY FOLLOW MARTENS HERE, IS REPORT

London, March 29.—Boris Litvinoff, former head of the Russian Trade Commission that conducted negotiations with Great Britain for the opening of commercial relations, has been assigned to replace Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, as Soviet agent in the United States, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Helsingfors today.

THE BRITISH CAMPAIGN IN IRELAND

The intensely interesting details showing the elaborate military preparations for the quelling of the Irish "Rebellion," are described in the report of witnesses of American Commission on Conditions in Ireland, beginning next Thursday in the Boston American. How British Imperial Troops (Regular Army), irregulars known as "Black and Tan," overrun Ireland. Immense stores of rifle ammunition, bombs of incendiary nature, with large numbers of airplanes of all descriptions, military balloons and other impediments similar to that used in France can be seen today all over southern and western Ireland. The military situation, as completely described and illustrated in a remarkable series of articles, covering the report to the American Commission on Conditions in Ireland, is beginning in Next Thursday's Boston American.

Advertising—Its How, Why and When

One Writer Psychology Hand in Hand News for You Truth

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

LAST week E. A. Wilson had this to say on "Advertising —How, Why and When."

Since advertising is economic in its effect, his words should appeal to both the buyer of publicity and the reader of advertising.

"First, perhaps, we had better give a definition of advertising as it is now understood. One writer has defined advertising as the art of writing and display, so as to make the man or woman long for something they never heard of before, but will buy from the psychology suggestion contained in the ad.

"Then, again, advertising is news, the individual or concern that is continuously keeping the public posted in regard to the goods he has to offer, is giving news that is valuable to many readers as the stock reports, shipping news or telegraphic reports.

"The average woman is more eager for the newspaper to come to read the advertising news, than the average man is to get the stock report.

"It is somewhat difficult to separate advertising from salesmanship. They go hand in hand. Advertising is the silent salesman that is working while merchants are sleeping, a salesman that enters the home or office without knocking or presenting his card. Now, if the ad is well dressed, has an attractive headline, suggesting something you need, your attention is arrested, your interest aroused, and the desire to possess the article is created.

"Advertising is the dynamo of business, advertising is the driving power of the world's commerce. Without advertising the wheels of commerce the world over would come to a standstill.

"Did you ever stop to think what would happen if suddenly everyone stopped advertising? Can you realize what it would mean? It would be practically the same as shutting off the light with a store full of customers, and yet there are men in the world who do not believe in advertising, who look upon it as a useless expense.

"Advertising is not a fine art, but a commercial operation—no one conceives of any commercial operation other than advertising is being conducted except by experienced provision and on settled principles, yet advertising which is just as technical a job as banking or medicine, is quite commonly discussed as if it were a pure gamble. The most conspicuous feature of really modern advertising is exactness and truthfulness.

"Truth in advertising is today the only factor that will stand the test of public investigation. The days of the blatant, boastful and exaggerated style of advertising as result bringing are done, and the dignified, logical and sincere talk in advertising is known to be the only kind that will inspire confidence and attract buyers.

"If advertising did not enable the big concerns to sell more extensively and cheaper, they would not advertise. Advertising is cumulative—the more a merchant or manufacturer advertises the more business he will get and the cost will be less to the consumer."

These facts about advertising, which point out its value to merchants, are highly significant to buyers as well.

The qualities which make advertising pay the merchant to print it, make it pay people to read it; the qualities which give advertising value as merchandise news, make it equally valuable to seekers of such.

Advertising must be truthful to endure—therefore, readers may follow the buying suggestions in those advertisements which appear day after day with full confidence in the quality offered and the accuracy of the prices quoted.

"Advertising is cumulative—the more a merchant advertises, the more business he will get and the cost will be less." Therefore, readers will profit who buy advertised goods; advertising guarantees lower prices and consequent savings.

Just at this time, when every man and woman should make a dollar do its full buying duty, advertising should be read more earnestly, and its suggestions followed more consistently than ever before. To do so is to increase the dollar's value, and to insure more quality in the merchandise purchased.

HAPGOOD SAYS JUDGES WON'T RESIGN

Declares U. S. Supreme Court Members Will Hold Their Positions

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Staff Correspondent of Boston American.

Norman Hapgood

Washington, March 29.—As the Supreme Court rules the United States, I usually find myself seated in front of the bench on opinion days. Even if no "big cases" come off, there is usually something to interest the observer of how we are governed.

There was yesterday. Congress passed a law forcing railroads to adopt safety coupling appliances. One road broke the law, and a simple workman named Lang got killed in consequence. The majority of the court said the road was not liable. Justice Clarke tried to prove it was, and Justice Day agreed with him. Justice McKenna, for the majority, said the safety device was intended to provide safety for persons standing on the platform. Therefore, as Lang was not killed in the way Congress is supposed to have had in mind, there could be no recovery.

Lang was a brakeman. He was working in the yard containing a car for which the coupler and drawbar had been missing for several days. The yard was crowded. Lang had to move another car around in the yard. Through no fault of his own, as Justice Clarke explained, his car bumped into the defective car. His leg was crushed and he died. Had the New York Central obeyed the law he would not have been hurt.

The contention on the other side was that the car was not in use at the time, whatever that has to do with it. Justice Clarke says it was in use, since it was in the yard to be unloaded, and was actually unloaded that day. It was on a track that was constantly used. Anyhow, the result is the same to the Lang family. Legislation in this country is a difficult art.

Justices Do Not Intend to Resign

I have a strong admiration for the bearing and seriousness of these heavily-laden justices. As they were filing into the court room, from their meeting-room across the hall, they were seen by a passing stranger, who exclaimed, "Heavens, what dignity!" They go about their work not only with genuine dignity, which might well be imitated by the legislative branch, but also with unflagging industry.

At yesterday's session Justice McReynolds was absent. He is absent a good deal of the time, either altogether or for a portion of the sitting. He is the only one who seems bored with his work. The others are completely devoted. But with all the rumors about resignation he is never mentioned. Only the hard-working ones are mentioned.

The new outburst of rumor about the intention of Chief Justice White to resign has absolutely no foundation. It has always been a false rumor and it remains one. Similar stories have been revived in the papers lately about other members of the court. They also are false. Mr. Justice Holmes is eighty years old, but there is not a man in the United States who could fill his place. Two others are mentioned, but neither Justice McKenna nor Justice Day has the slightest intention of resigning.

Roosevelt Wanted Fuller to Resign.

Chief Justice Fuller was sick for some time. It is the custom of the justices to call to pay their respects once a year to the President. The usual time is the first day of the court term. The illness of Chief Justice Fuller prevented his calling, so he turned up about a month later. President Roosevelt was delighted. He thought the longed-for resignation was coming.

Nothing was said about it, however, so the President asked: "Are you going to resume your work?"

"I have already resumed it," said the chief justice.

The President then approached the question of whether he had any intention of resigning, whereupon the chief justice told him about an acquaintance of his who was asked the same question, and who answered: "I have already tendered my resignation. I tendered it to the Lord. He will accept it in His own good time."

BROOKLINE PROTESTS NEW COAL POCKET

The residents in and about Kent street, Brookline, have presented a petition to the Board of Selectmen of Brookline protesting against the building of a coal pocket by the Stetson Coal Company in the rear of Kent street, near Kent square, and on a bank of the Boston & Albany railroad tracks. The Selectmen took the matter of the petition under advisement.

THE BRITISH CAMPAIGN IN IRELAND

The intensely interesting details, showing the elaborate military preparations for the quelling of the Irish "Rebellion," are described in the report of witnesses of American Commission on Conditions in Ireland, beginning next Thursday in the Boston American. How British Imperial Troops (Regular Army), irregulars, known as "Black and Tan," overrun Ireland. Immense stores of rifle ammunition, bombs of incendiary nature, with large numbers of aeroplanes of all descriptions, military balloons and other impedimenta similar to that used in France can be seen today all over southern and western Ireland. The military situation, as completely described and illustrated in a remarkable series of articles, covering the report to the American Commission on Conditions in Ireland, is beginning in next Thursday's Boston American.

Our Slang to Be "All to the Candy" in Future

Chicago, March 29.—The slang of today will be perfectly proper in the future, said Professor H. Glickman, of the English department of the University of Wisconsin today.

"Our language is made up of what we once slang, idioms, colloquialism and jargon," he said. "The word mob was slang 200 years ago and was denounced as such in the Spectator by Addison. It is an abbreviation of the word 'mobile.' The word 'pop' is vital and virile and will survive."

So, also, around a couple of hundred years, kid, and your lingo will be all to the candy.

FINKEL HOPES GUILTY WILL BE PUNISHED

Editor Boston American:

I doubt very much whether more than a very small number of the members of the 1918 Legislature speculated in Boston Elevated stock. It is a pity that the wrong doing of a few should cast a shadow upon the reputation of the entire membership. The situation is very serious and should be thoroughly investigated and the guilty ones severely punished. I hope that the matter is not dropped. SAMUEL B. FINKEL,
Former Senator of Dorchester.

GIRL HE SCORNED REPORTED READY TO "EXPOSE" STILLMAN

BEAUTY TO AID WIFE OF BANKER

Supplanted by Mrs. Leeds, Mystery Girl Turns on Former Patron

New York, March 29.—Hate, that element of bitter passion which flames in the heart of a scorned and abandoned woman, was introduced today into the drama of James A. Stillman, president of the National City Bank of New York, and his wife, the former "Fifi" Potter, society belle.

Following hard upon the banker's suit against his wife and her affirmative defence naming Mrs. Florence Leeds," it is brought to notice today that another woman is intent upon revenge.

It is a new and pathetic figure that is looming in the troubled life of James Stillman.

She—it is declared—had been of the demi monde. And at present, it is added, she is in such humble circumstances that a few dollars would mean considerable to her.

But a few years ago—so short a space that it seems only yesterday to her and those who knew her—she was living in luxury.

Her slightest whim, it is said, was gratified. She resided in magnificent apartments, her sartorial splendor, her gowns and ensembles were the envy of her friends. For a fitful spell she was the cynosure of all eyes.

It was in that mad whirling gayety that did glow so warmly on Broadway, carrying with it grayeold mornings and regrets, vain regrets.

The identity of this woman, who breathes hate against Banker Stillman, is veiled. The story itself can be told at present that it will remain veiled.

But she is expected to testify against the banker who, it will be charged, made it possible for her to be one of those evanescent—flashing—welfare in the night life of Manhattan.

Once, it is declared, this woman loved the banker. The money king—outwardly there was every semblance of devotion on both sides. She—young and beautiful. He—still retaining the physique that had made him known as an athlete in his college days, the virility that had won him his letter at Harvard—and he was rich and powerful in the financial world.

And then in the present—according to the information in the hands of Mrs. Stillman and her lawyers this woman who has been discarded, the inamorata—hates the banker. She avails the opportunity—she will gladly come out of her present obscurity and poverty to testify against him.

This new woman in the case, it was said today, is doing that might tend to aid Mrs. Leeds. And the accusation will be made, it was added, that Mrs. Leeds supplanted this woman in Banker Stillman's affections.

Every effort to learn the identity of the new woman was defeated today and her identity probably will not be made known until the banker insists on pushing his suit for divorce against his wife.

Much of the information that is coming to Mrs. Stillman, it was said today, is coming from anonymous letters and her detectives are constantly busy investigating them.

Who's Who in the Stillman Divorce Case

Financier Is Master of Millions and Big Bank

THE HUSBAND AND WIFE.

JAMES A STILLMAN, president of the National City Bank of New York, one of the most powerful financial institutions of the world. Born to be master of millions. Accumulated many more millions. Is forty-five, is early middle age. Tall, straight-built, smooth-shaven, wears eyeglasses, father of exquisite as to dress, rather offish as to manner toward men, and timidly courtly as to women. Evidences a sense of "superiority." Was of Harvard; a fair oarsman and baseball pitcher.

Mr. Stillman accuses his wife of infidelity and declares that her son, called Guy and born in 1918, is not his, but is the offspring of a French-Indian guide employed at the Stillman Summer home at Three Rivers, Quebec, Canada.

ANNE URQUHART POTTER STILLMAN.

ANNE URQUHART POTTER STILLMAN, the wife, famous in her youth as "Fifi" Potter. Daughter of James Brown Potter and Cora Urquhart Potter, the latter named also famous as a beauty. Auburn-haired, hazel-eyed, rich-colored, still statuesque figure. Vivacious, witty, a linguist, a horsewoman, fond of exercise. Married 1901; now quite forty-two years old.

Mrs. Stillman denies her husband's charges and says the son, Guy, is of his parentage. Against her husband she swings a recrimination that he maintained in luxury a former chorus girl, and that this woman's son, known as Jay Leeds, and born fairly close to the time little Guy Stillman was born, is Mr. Stillman's son, also.

She asks for $12,000 a month alimony and $25,000 counsel fees, declaring her husband well able to pay this. Mrs. Stillman's father, who bore the same name and was also president of the National City Bank, left a fortune of more than $3,500,000 when he died in 1918. Mrs. Stillman has been receiving a separation allowance of $5,000 a month.

THE INNOCENT CAUSES.

GUY STILLMAN, born in New York City in November, 1918, registered as son of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman. Sturdy, handsome little chap, now with his mother at Lakewood. N. J., prattling babyishly with visitors, posing calmly for photographs, all unaware of his position.

If he is pronounced illegitimate, he will automatically be cut off from sharing in the millions of James A. Stillman's estate and in other millions left by Mr. Stillman's father to his grandchildren.

"JAY LEEDS," born in New York City in September, 1918, registered as son of Franklyn Harold Leeds and Florence Helena Leeds. Believed to be at present with his mother in Cuba. Was until recently with his mother at Miami, Fla. May, under certain conditions, have a claim to millions of father, known as "Leeds." Said to be a pretty, healthy, lovable child.

THE OTHER MAN—AND WOMAN.

FERD BEAUVAIS, accused of being the lover of Mrs. Stillman and the father of her child. Five feet ten inches tall, weight 165 pounds, twenty-six, dark hair, Canadian born, of French and Indian parents. So handsome he was called "Apollo Belvidere." Master of woodcraft. Employed in 1916 by the Stillmans at their Canadian home near Three Rivers. Because of his education and mentality, ranked as more than servant. Second of Summer season brought by Stillmans to country home at Pocantico Hills, to keep woodcraft to eldest son. That Winter demonstrated sporting goods at Abercrombie & Fitch's shop. Was at Canadian and New York homes often during Mr. Stillman's absence.

Beauvais found in Canada without past few days, denied any intimate association with Mrs. Stillman. Declared willingness to come to New York to testify when needed.

Accused Wife Was Famous in Youth as Beauty

FLORENCE HELENA LEEDS, mother of little [illegible]. It is charged by Mrs. Stillman, mistress of Mr. [illegible] ing with her under name of Leeds. Small, slender, Titian-haired (this color artificial, it is said) and about twenty-five years old. Said to be the daughter of an uptown plumber named Lawler [illegible] in spite of much evidence, Lawler family denies connection. In 1916 was in "chicken-chorus" of "The Century Girl." Following year began attending performances in limousine, fur-clad. Next appeared in luxurious apartment in East Thirty-sixth street as "Mrs. Franklyn Harold Leeds." Had motor cars, maids, everything she wanted. Lived in Long Island mansion, lately in Florida, vanished from there within past few days.

THE MYSTERIOUS PERSONAGE

"FRANKLYN HAROLD LEEDS?" James A. Stillman? Which? Mrs. Stillman declares —and there seems to be substantial evidence tending at least to lend credence to her belief— that "Leeds" is none other than her husband. Description—exactly identical with that of Stillman. Registered as father of little Jay Leeds. Shown to have purchased same Marmon motorcar in 1918 (according to factory number in license application) from James A. Stillman possessed in 1919 and 1920. Said to have been recognised by chauffeurs and others as James A. Stillman.

SCENES OF THE DRAMA.

No. 270 Park avenue, the Stillman townhouse. Their estate at Pocantico Hills, adjoining that of John D. Rockefeller (Mrs. William G. Rockefeller and Mrs. Percy Rockefeller were both Stillman girls). Their hunting lodge at Three Rivers, Canada.

No. 64 East 56th street, the first home of the "Leeds" "Nest Court," between Grand Neck and Stony Brook, L. I., their Summer place. "The Love Nest," Miami, Fla. The yacht "Modesty," lately lying off Miami.

DESCRIBES AID OF RED CROSS IN RUSSIA

Charles Flamand Paints Woeful Picture of Chaotic Conditions Under Bolshevist Reign

"Almost unbelievable chaos reigns in Siberia, and the only relief from the cold and hunger there is furnished by the American Red Cross," said Charles Flamand, son of J. C. Joseph Flamand, French consul in Boston, and who recently returned from seven months' stay in Vladivostok.

"Imagine," he said, "a group of eighty or a hundred children, half-clad, their thin bodies shaking in the bitter cold winds, waiting outside the mess kitchens of the American army to catch the scraps of food that are thrown out when the meals are over. The little ones fight to get those bits of food with all the ferocity of wolves.

"If there is anyone in this country who believes there is any good in Bolshevikism, let him spend a few months in Siberia as I did, let him see the chaos and stagnation that reigns there, the suffering and everything else, and I'll wager he will see Bolshevikism in quite a new light.

"There is, however, one bright star in the lives of those poor sufferers in Siberia—the American Red Cross. The workers of that body appear, I think, somewhat in the light of angels, and I do not readily understand why this is so.

"Starvation is staring the peasants in the face perpetually, and their clothes enough to protect themselves against the cold. The American Red Cross feeds them enough to enable them to keep body and soul together and gives them clothing enough to keep them from freezing to death.

"And for all this there can come no help. I think the world has failed. The peasants there are illiterate, they don't see things as we people do, and they are willing to exist in those terrible conditions under a Bolshevist government rather than risk the restoration of the czarist regime."

REPORT MINSK TAKEN BY RUSSIAN REBELS

London, March 29.—The following Central News dispatch was received from Helsingfors today:

"Russian rebels have captured Minsk and proclaimed a 'white republic.' Ukrainians have surrounded Kief, the Ukrainian capital, where fighting is in progress.

"There is no official confirmation of any new revolutionary outbreaks in White Russia or Ukrainia."

Sky Is Limit in Britain for Women Bathers

London, March 29.—Women's bathing suits may be of any length, shape and design, according to a ruling just made by the British Minister of Health.

Reports that the ministry had decided to prohibit all beach costumes that did not extend from the neck to within three inches of the knee were repeated in the House of Commons by Lord Winterton, who represents in Parliament a fashionable Sussex resort.

"Does the minister of health propose to censor all bathing dresses on the ground of public health or of public morality?" he asked. "In view of the criticisms of modern dress generally made by ecclesiastical and medical men on the ground of morals and health respectively, will the minister circularize all municipalities on the subject?"

Dr. Addison, minister of health, replied that it was no concern of the government whether costumes worn bathing or other, were decent or indecent; public opinion must take care of such matters. "What happened was that the rule of Thanet Rural Council submitted to us a by-law requiring everyone over ten years of age to wear, while bathing, a costume reaching from the shoulders to within three inches of the knees. We ruled such a by-law out of order, leaving women to wear whatever costume their sense of propriety might suggest."

ESSEN BATTLE OF REDS COSTS 14 LIVES

German Security Police Are Bombed by Communists; 46 Persons Wounded

By International News Service.

Berlin, March 29.—Fourteen persons were killed and forty-six wounded in a violent collision between the security police and Communists at Essen, in the Ruhr district, today. Three of the dead were security policemen. Essen is the seat of the great Krupp works and other iron and steel industries.

An officer of the Security Police had ordered a Communist mob to disperse. While the officer was engaged in conversation with the ringleaders of the Reds some unknown person threw a huge bouquet of flowers from a window into the midst of the policemen. The flowers covered a hand grenade, which exploded beneath an automobile.

The policemen fired three volleys into the air to frighten the Reds.

The Communists, heavily armed, opened fire with revolvers and hand grenades. The policemen returned this fire.

HUB BANK MAN ASKS $100,000 HEART BALM

Scoffs at Senator Cameron's Charge of "Blackmail" in Alienation Suit

Edward Taber MacFarlin, an employe of the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust, who filed suit for $100,000 against United States Senator Ralph H. Cameron of Arizona for alleged alienation of his wife's affections, is amused at the statement of the Westerner that the suit is "unadulterated blackmail."

"That's what they all say," MacFarlin remarked today with a smile when asked by a Boston American reporter about Senator Cameron's statement.

"The only reason why the papers were not served before was because it was first necessary for Senator Cmeron to place himself within jurisdiction of the court. If he was innocent why did he not accept service previously if he knew [illegible] says that the papers were filed five years ago?"

MacFarlin's wife was formerly Miss Margaret Worcester of Dorchester. He has not seen her for more than three years. The last he knew of her whereabouts she was living in Los Angeles, he said.

According to the papers filed in New York, the Boston bank employe charges the Western millionaire senator "did by and with surprising 'undue influence' over Mrs. MacFarlin. It is also charged that Cameron, who built the famous "Bright Angel Trail" in the Grand Canyon of Colorado, "harbored and fostered" the Boston man's wife. Cameron was born in Southport, Maine, fifty-seven years ago. He married and has a twenty-five-year-old son. Mrs. MacFarlin is forty-one [illegible] old.

2 WOMEN HURT AS TRUCK RAMS AUTOMOBILE

Occupants of Touring Car Taken to Hospital After Allston Crash

Two women were injured when a motor truck crashed into a sedan car at Harvard and Brighton avenues, Allston, today.

The injured, who were occupants of the sedan, were Miss Elizabeth Burns, thirty-eight years old, of No. 168 Willow street, Waltham, and Miss Margaret Connors, forty-two, No. 35 Willow street, Waltham. They were removed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Miss Burns is suffering from multiple contusions and Miss Connors from cuts about the body.

The truck is owned and operated by George B. Willard, No. 14 Lafayette street, Waltham. The sedan was owned by Fred Tibbetts and driven by William H. Khaidenan, both of Franklin street, Cambridge. Both men escaped injury. The machines were badly damaged.

LAWRENCE "DEATH TRAP" CROSSING TO BE REMOVED

Lawrence, March 29.—Representatives of the Boston & Maine railroad, several bank officials, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and other city officials met in the council chamber at the City Hall here, to discuss the erection of a large central railroad station for Lawrence and the solution of the Parker street grade crossing. The latter, called for years "the death trap," because of the many who lost their lives crossing the tracks, will be remedied at once, it is said.

CENTRAL FALLS PLANT REOPENS ON SHORT TIME

BRITISH SECRET SERVICE MAN SHOT DOWN

Riddled With Bullets Within Less Than 100 Yards of Dublin Castle

Dublin, March 29.—Captain Cecil Lees, who was said to have been a member of the British secret service, was assassinated within less than 100 yards of Dublin Castle today. He was attacked by four men who riddled his body with bullets.

London, March 29. — Allegations that Irish railway workers who are members of the Railmen's Union were treated "inhumanly" because of their sympathy with the republican cause were repudiated today by the official report of the investigators into the recent Mallow killings.

Two railway men were shot to death at Mallow at the same time that Inspector King of the Royal Irish constabulary was killed and Mrs. King was dangerously wounded on the railway station platform.

The report says that it was disproved that railway men in Ireland were treated unfairly or were "singled" that the crown forces were guilty of looting.

The investigators were unable to fix the responsibility for the killing of the rail men at Mallow "who were shot during a battle between Sinn Feiners and policemen."

LECTURES FOR TECH ARCHITECTUAL MEN

With the view of giving the architectural students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology a more comprehensive knowledge of their profession, Professor William Emerson, head of the department of architecture at Technology, has arranged for a series of lectures to be given Friday afternoons during April and May in the Rogers Building on Boylston street. TWO RESCUED AT EVERETT BLAZE

Three Families Forced to Flee Into Bitter Cold by Fire in Dwelling

Three families were driven into the bitter cold of the street, and one woman and her six-months' daughter were rescued from death when fire swept the three-story frame house at No. 18A South Ferry street, Everett, today.

The house was occupied by three families. James Ryan, his wife and son lived on the first floor, William G. LaGrow, his wife and two children on the second, and the owner, Hugh McLaughlin, his wife and son Thomas J. McLaughlin on the top floor.

The fire apparently started in the basement, and was discovered by Mrs. McLaughlin, who was aroused by the crackling of the flames and the smell of smoke coming up the front stairway.

She rushed to rouse her own family and then ran down stairs and gave the alarm to the others.

In the meantime some passerby on the street, seeing the smoke, turned in an alarm that brought the department. The McLaughlins had fled without waiting to put on more street clothes, and wrapped in bathrobes. The Ryans, wakened by Mrs. McLaughlin, also escaped but partially clad, but the LaGrows, who delayed a short moment wrapping up the baby boy, William G., Jr., found their path to the street cut off by the blaze, which by that time had seized upon the front stairway and halls.

When the firemen arrived they made their way through the dense clouds of smoke up the rear stairway to the LaGrow apartment, and carried the girl, Nelly, six years old, down the back way.

Mrs. LaGrow attempted to follow, but was overpowered by the smoke and had to be carried out. Mr. LaGrow, Jr., was also overcome by the smoke and suffered against cold and smoke, to safety.

The damage is estimated at $3,000.

Selling Cost 4-10 of 1%

"The bulk of our business, since the formation of our company, has been obtained by telephone solicitation," says T. A. D. Fessenden, treasurer of the Union Chemical Company, Boston.

In a recent letter to us he says:

"Our experience has shown us that selling expenses for personally solicited business, exclusive of salary, amount to no less than 4 per cent. of gross sales. The actual cost of our telephone salesmanship has been LESS THAN FOUR-TENTHS OF ONE PER CENT.

"We do not believe that the telephone will ever entirely displace the personal call. We want to see our customers and we want them to see us and know us, but, once known, we can save time and money for the customer and ourselves by telephone salesmanship, and give better service, for we are in more frequent touch by telephone.

"We have found that the telephone can be used effectively in the sale of our materials for the following reasons: First, low cost; second, we can reach easily to 40 or 50 customers in a day, regardless of location; third, it is a great saving in time for both salesman and buyer; fourth, by constant use the same personal touch will be found in telephone solicitation; fifth, we can give better service to our customers."

THE 'STORM' IS EXCITING

By FRED J. McISAAC,
Dramatic Editor.

"The Storm," a melodrama in four acts, by Langdon McCormick, with Helen MacKellar in the leading feminine role, is now to be found at the Globe Theatre. This piece ran a long time in New York, largely upon two astonishing and realistic scenes of stagecraft, one a blizzard and the other a forest fire.

The forest fire is one of the most ingenious and impressive spectacles ever devised. It is far more thrilling than any of the old fashioned red fire conflagrations of the old fashioned melodramas, and yet the entire affair is electrical. There isn't actually so much as a match burning. It's one of those things you can't describe. So see it.

PLOT IS EXCITING.

The plot isn't so bad for a melodrama. It is clever and exciting and the dialogue isn't too high falutin. It is all about a sweet little blonde French-Canadian girl of the North woods, who starts as a camp where two young men are planning to spend the Winter, having ordered a snow storm for that very night. Her father has been wounded and dies, off stage, and of course the yellow-haired mademoiselle has to remain for the Winter in the same cabin with the men.

One of these is an untutored, but noble woodsman. He has curly black hair, a chest like William Farnum, and an ingenious grin. He is played by Edward Arnold.

FIRE SPECTACLE.

The other is an Englishman, tall, thin, ascetic looking, with a squeaky tenor voice. Undoubtedly there must be Englishmen of large physique with bass voices, else how could the British Empire could never have been established. But the Englishmen of the American stage are always of the type played by Robert Rendel and if they were fair representatives of the Anglo- saxon, the Irish would have conquered Britian ages ago, their capital would be London and the family name of the British monarch, O'Brien.

Given two such types, it doesn't take an intelligent spectator more than three or four minutes to guess who will win the girl, and everybody knows it long before Dustin Farnum, or is it William, discovers it himself?

DIALECT REALISTIC.

This brings us to the forest fire. It's a wonderful spectacle, but its action is funny. It doesn't burn anything. The entire fire springs up in about five minutes and it comes at this cabin in the forest from every side. The trees are all on fire, the heat must naturally be appalling, and how the entire cast is going to escape is a mystery to everybody who ever saw a fire in a kitchen stove.

The two heroes who are supposed to be protecting the girl no matter how they differ between themselves, both take refuge in the cabin and Manette is found by an Indian and is rescued by lying in the bottom of a canoe in a river painted on the backdrop, and not much wider than 5th Alley.

Next morning we discover that this cabin, upon which we saw a flaming tree fall during the fire, hasn't even been scorched, having apparently been built of asbestos logs, and the two gentlemen, who ought to be toasted like a couple of Thanksgiving turkeys, haven't even had their clothes burned.

But, be that as it may, as George Manroe used to say, Helen MacKellar does an extremely taxing job as the blonde French-Canadian. Her dialect is so realistic that it would make Leonore Ulric turn green with envy if Miss Ulric were not yellow this season, playing a Chinese role. And her portrayal of sweetness, innocence, trustfulness, and devotion was exceedingly pretty. Also, may it be said, that when Miss MacKellar toddles forth in a nightgown which was a bit sheer for the cold north woods, she made a picture which would cause Al Woods to hurry around to the nearest store with a contract for one of his negligee dramas.

Messrs. Arnold and Rendel play their roles very well. Charles T. Lewis made a good Indian and Max Mitzel, as a divine trapper, made us feel sorry he had to go.

NATIONAL THEATRE — "Black Beauty," the first version of Anna Sewell's famous classic of the horse, began its second and last week at the National Theatre yesterday, as the added extra feature of the big bill "A Chicken in the Case" is the five-reel photoplay feature for the final half of the week and "Way of a Woman" will be shown the last half.

MODERN AND BEACON — Viola Dana, who played so gracefully and wondrously in many pictures of distinction, comes up to expectations in "Puppets of Fate," the Metro special which opened yesterday at the Modern and Beacon theatres. This is followed by Sir James M. Barrie's famous play, "What Every Woman Knows," in which Maude Adams made a great success, now made into an elaborate photodrama, by William De Mille, who presents it with Lois Wilson and Conrad Nagel in the leading roles.

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—The concluding week of the engagement of John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" began at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening to an audience that tested the capacity of the house.

COLONIAL THEATRE — George White's "Scandals of 1920" began its fourth week at the Colonial Theatre last evening with a typical Easter holiday audience present.- This is an ideal Springtime attraction, a spirit of jollity and freshness permeating it.

TREMONT THEATRE—David Belasco's production of Jean Archibald's comedy, "Call the Doctor," began its final fortnight at the Tremont Theatre last evening. This has proved to be one of the most distinctive comedy successes of the season, and fittingly so, because it is one of the brightest pieces of stage writing seen in many seasons.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Hon- ors Are Even," now in its thirteenth week at Selwyn's Park square Theatre, with William Courtenay and Lola Fisher co-starred, has achieved the greatest run of the season and continues to attract capacity audiences.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Cyrrie's Garter," the A. H. Woods's snappy farce with Hazel Dawn and Walter Jones heading the smart list of favorites, is playing its last week at the Plymouth Theatre, but it will not be its last week in Boston, Next week it moves to the Wilbur Theatre for one week only.

SHUBERT THEATRE—Unparaleled success of the Greenwich Village Follies, 1920, at the Shubert Theatre, has made it necessary to extend the engagement of this revuelcal comedy for two more weeks and the final performance in Boston will be given Saturday night, April 16.

WILBUR THEATRE — Ben-Ami, the young Russian actor, who began his last week at the Wilbur Theatre yesterday, has made a strong impression on playgoers who enjoy dramatic acting by his powerful and vibrant characterization of the poet-dramatist in "Samson and Delilah."

TREMONT TEMPLE—Yesterday, the 28th day of March, the 28th week of D. W. Griffith's wondrous picturization of "Way Down East" began its continuous Boston run at the Tremont Temple. With renewed vigor from out the Lenten season this greatest of all the unusual works of Mr. Griffith has won a fame and record never before equalled by an amusement.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE—Not in months have the Somerville patrons laughed so heartily and enjoyed a play as wholesome in spirit, as full of rib tickling good fun and bright and witty dialogue as "Mrs. Murphy," which was presented for the first times on any stage yesterday afternoon and evening by the clever and talented Somerville Players. Gracie Emmett, celebrated as America's foremost character comedienne and author of the famous series of plays featuring "Mrs. Murphy," personally played the title role, and it was indeed a royal reception which she received when she made her first entrance.

LANCASTER THEATRE — The most delightful comedy seen here in some time is "Brewster's Millions," starring "Patty" Arbuckle, which is now view at the Lancaster Theatre the first three days of the week. It is the hilarious tale of a man who had to squander a fortune—and couldn't.

'HONEYDEW' IS TUNEFUL

Efrem Zimbalist's first fling at writing musical comedy compositions arrived in Boston last night at the Majestic Theatre with "Honeydew," labeled by its producer, Joe Weber, as "the sparkling musical comedy," and the result confirms the expectations of his admirers.

"Honeydew" possesses as much real melody as it has been the pleasure of Boston theatregoers to hear this year, and although the book and lyrics of Joseph Herbert rest in the shadow of the violinist's spontaneous music, the piece has charm and liveliness.

Zimbalist, when he packed his fiddle away in order to turn composer, had an eye, or rather an ear, to the public's weakness for melody, and he worked his pen overtime to achieve a popular success. And to give him credit he made a good job of it without dragging in a lot of squeely jazz. One or two of his pieces is good enough to rank with light opera, and even if the rest of his work has a more or less familiar flavor, it is better than most of the efforts of the Tin Pan Alley boys.

Joe Weber, as usual, has mounted the piece brilliantly, in fact the costumes and investiture ranks favorably with the big revues.

The story of "Honeydew" follows along more or less conventional lines with the inevitable number of marital entanglements, but it provides an interesting background for Zimbalist to work out his ideas. The plot, if it can be dignified by that title, has to do with wives of one Henry Honeydew, Henry needed a lady who loves another; there is a divorce and he weds a plump youngster whose father later is married to his divorced wife. This crowd is brought together with the usual complications, etc, and everything ends happily in the same old grand finale.

But during this mixup the author has managed to drag in a Chinese fantasy that is exceptionally fine, and a Spanish dance that has a pleasant flavor. The costume effects in the fantasy were gorgeous and the spirit of the Chinese tragedy was carried out with more or less fidelity.

SAM ASH RETURNS.

For the fantasy we were indebted to Miss Marguerite and Messrs Dunamure and Gill. The former shone equally brilliant as a Spanish dancer, and with Mr. Gill offered several difficult gyrations.

Sam Ash, an old favorite in Boston, sang as brilliantly as ever. He has a tenor voice that can be compared favorably with any heard in Boston in this type of production. Hal Forde, as Henry Honeydew, has a hard job of fun-maker in the role, but he gets as much comedy out of the part as it permits.

If there are no brilliant voices on the distaff side of the piece, they are at least pleasing. Dorothy Follis and Ethelind Terry were admirable, and Miss Conover, as a bibulous lady, was good.

The chorus was good-looking and four Chinese maids were cute. Altogether the piece is well worth seeing—and hearing.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA—To see William S. Hart in a Western portrayal, is like viewing some historic figure of a past enlivening vividly real, eminently artistic. So it is with his latest Paramount picture, "O'Malley of the Mounted," which was presented with gratifying results at Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia Theatre yesterday.

GAYETY THEATRE — Practically every element needed to make good show is to be found in "Polly Town," yesterday's attraction at the Gayety Theatre. This is the same show that played on Broadway throughout last Summer; and its snap gives it first place among the many attractions that have been presented this season at the Gayety. From the opening of the show, which is the usual one of a prologue, until the final curtain, there is a succession of elaborate settings and colorful costumes, with a bevy of pretty girls.

GORDON'S STRAND — A comedy with heart interest; a love story with appeal; a tale of made advantage; a chronicle of conflicting emotions set forth in a human way and highly seasoned with spectacular stunts and astounding novelties—such a story has Douglas Fairbanks presented in his fifth United Artists' production, "The Mollycoddle," which opened yesterday at Gordon's Strand Theatre, Upham's Corner.

BIG TREAT APRIL 8 FOR VAUDEVILLE PATRONS

Those who are so fortunate as to secure seats for local vaudeville theatres on Friday afternoon, April 8, have a rare entertainment treat in store.

For on the afternoon in question in addition to the regular bill, there will be presented a number of special "stunts" participated in by the art sts on the current program. The occasion will be the Second Annual Testimonial Matinee for the benefit of the N. V. A. Insurance fund. The N. V. A.'s full name is the National Vaudeville Artists, Inc, the organization of vaudeville artists which has done much to elevate vaudeville in this country to its present high standard.

MISS LEVEY IS AT KEITH'S

It has been a long time since Boston has had the pleasure of being entertained by Ethel Levey. The span of time has not lessened her ability to sing peppy melodies in a manner quite characteristic of the Southern darkey.

Miss Levey, who is the head liner at B. F. Keith's Theatre, has a good contralto voice that covers quite a range and she uses it in a skilful manner.

Elsa Ryan, fascinating little colleen, appeared in a very amusing playlet, "Peg-Per-Short." She was supported by Rodney Ranous.

A little departure from the regular bill took place when Bobby McLean was challenged to a skating race to take place in the Boston Arena Thursday of this week. McLean was world's amateur skating champion for several years, up to 1917, then turning professional. Pictures of his famous races with Mathieson, the European champion, were shown on the screen. With a limited amount of space Mr. McLean accomplished some difficult jumping feats. He was assisted by Jack Pomeroy—Burk and Blue.

Billy Gibson, a Boston boy, had some good songs and jokes. He certainly has made his way in the theatrical world since he appeared at the Roxbury theatre.

BOSTON THEATRE—Once more William Fox has provided Pearl White, famous on the screen, with a vehicle that enables her to show that she is a versatile actress. Of late she has been seen in mountain melodrama on high society plays, but at the Boston Theatre this week the star gave a fine portrayal of an emotional character in "I Know Your Men," the scenario for which was written by Paul H. Sloane.

Coming Events

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—One of the most impressive attractions scheduled at the Hollis Street Theatre this season will be the advent of Henry Miller and Blanche Bates in what is said to be their greatest triumph—"The Famous Mrs. Fair"—a comedy from the pen of that successful dramatist, James Forbes, at the Hollis, April 4.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," one of the most successful of A. H. Woods' farces, has been selected by Manager Jenkins as the next offering at the Arlington Theatre, where it will be presented next week.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE — John Cort's "The Skin Game," is coming to the Plymouth Theatre on Monday, April 4th. This noteworthy production is made by William A. Brady in association with the Reandean Company of London. The cast selected includes James Grey, Herbert Lomas, Marsh Allen, Cynthia Brooks, Arthur Bowyer, N. St. Clair Hale, Robertson and others.

WILBUR THEATRE—Colin O'More, the famous Irish tenor soloist, heads the cast of Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert's latest operetta "Blossom Time," which comes to the Wilbur Theatre, Monday, April 11. Mr. O'More will be surrounded by a notable cast in this striking production, the words and lyrics of which were written by Dorothy Donnelly. The score is by Sigmund Romberg. The action of the piece deals with the life of Baron Franz Schubert, famous composer whose masterpieces play a large part in the score of the production.

SHUBERT THEATRE — "In the Night Watch," messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert's spectacular melodramatic production, will open its local engagement at the Shubert Theatre on April 18. The original cast which startled New York in this gorgeous production will be seen here.

MISS GRAYSON MAKES DEBUT

Frances Grayson, the new leading lady of the Arlington Players, made her Boston debut at the Arlington Theatre last evening, with "Kerry Gow," an old Irish drama, made famous by Joseph Murphy, and was cordially received by a large and enthusiastic audience.

Miss Grayson was formerly in the support of Margaret Anglin and in the role of Nora Iveus, last night, won a distinct triumph.

The play is well staged, and the cast finely balanced. Wallace Sheffy Sullivan plays the role of Dan O'Hara.

Beatrice Whitney is cast in the role of Jack. She looks and acted her part well. She delighted the audience with a song and dance. Shaun O'Nolan, as Dennis Doyle, also sang some Irish songs.

ORPHEUM THEATRE — Manager Victor J. Morris hopes to break the season's record this week at Loew's Orpheum Theatre and with two splendid bills of vaudeville and photoplays this should be an easy matter. For the initial three days of the week he is offering a melodious musical comedy, "Nobody Home," with Matt Well, Jennie Moscowitz and an excellent cast as the headline features. Other acts include that musical duo, Mulcahy and Buckley, Jessie Reed, Anthony and Marcell the Three Cliffords and the Three Leos. The topline photoplay is the "Call of Youth."

WALDRON'S CASINO—There are some doings at Waldron's Casino all this week where Jacobs and Jermon are presenting their newest attraction, "The Vanishing Lady." A competent cast includes Ricky Mc-Allister, Harry Shannon, Billy Noble, Ellen Harmon, Lauri Moore, Mae Isabella, Jeanne Brooks and Jas. Slater. Gentlemen accompanist and a wonderful costumes are much in evidence.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—An ideal program is being offered by Manager Brenhan at the popular Locust St. Columbia Theatre for the initial half of the week, with four acts of spirited vaudeville supported by the showing of two superb photo-productions, Ethel Clayton in "The Star of Romance," and an allstar spectacle, "Burning Daylight," with scenic beauties that are marvelous.

NUXATED IRON
Helps make rich, red blood and revitalize weak nerves

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness, shortness of breath, pales across the face, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—insufficient iron in the blood. This is proved by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for a few weeks they find it's organism greatly improved and they become entirely free from all troubles. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into muscle and nerve. Without it nothing you eat does you any good, and you may eat plenty of food but get the strength out of it.

If you are not strong and well do not ask your doctor to give you a tonic and let it guess what is the matter with you, but take some organic iron—Nuxated Iron, for instance—and see if its organic iron and not metallic iron which penetrates the blood cells and is then carried by the action of strong cells on small muscle and nerve. ORGANIC NUXATED IRON is like the iron in your blood and like that in the lettuce, lentils and spinach and it often increases the health and mental power of weak men and women in two weeks' time.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and insist upon it. If in every case Nuxated Iron will be refunded by the manufacturers if it does not show results in a satisfactory manner. At all druggists.

This new way to beautiful teeth

Your druggist today has a new way of teeth cleaning. And a ten-day tube is free.

Millions of people now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. You would never go without it if you knew.

Go ask for that free tube. There are few things more important than well-protected teeth.

Remove the film-coat

You brush teeth now, but you leave much of the film. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not end it. So teeth too often discolor and decay.

Dentists now know that the reason lies in film. That causes most tooth troubles. And, until one ends it, brushing fails to save the teeth.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And pyorrhea wrecks countless lives today.

An alarming situation

Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Very few people escape them. So dental science has in late years studied to combat that film.

Now we know how. The methods have been proved by careful clinical tests, made under able authorities. Now millions of people employ them, largely by dental advice. A new era in teeth cleaning is fast spreading the world over.

These new methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. A 10-Day Tube is given to everyone who asks. Now all who will may quickly know that film can be combated.

What you will see

A test of Pepsodent brings quick and unique effects. One sees and feels them clearly. And a book which comes with the 10-Day Tube tells the reasons for them.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling. Each application also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Day by day we fight the film and all its ill effects. You see the results in whiter teeth. You feel them in cleaner teeth. But the great results are such protection as teeth never had before.

You owe yourself a knowledge of these facts. Old ways of brushing have proved sadly inadequate. Nearly everybody at some time suffers troubles caused by film.

Now science knows how to combat film, and in ten days you can know. Never again will you trust the old ways when you know the new.

Teeth will glisten when the film-coat goes

Get this free tube and watch it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

You will instantly know that Pepsodent does what nothing else has done. In a few days you will realize what clean teeth mean.

$50,000 FIRE IN PROVIDENCE APARTMENTS

25 Families Driven to Street in Mysterious Night Blaze in The Sherbrooke

Providence, R. I., March 29.—The Sherbrook, a fifty-one-room apartment house at No. 163 Broadway, was destroyed by fire which caused a loss estimated at more than $50,000.

Occupants of twenty-five apartments, who were in the building when the fire broke out, escaped in safety, scantily clad, although a number who lived on the top floor of the building had to be assisted down fire escapes after regular exits had been cut off by flames and smoke.

Most of those were women who became hysterical and they were assisted in making their escape by Patrolmen Leonard and Johnson of the central precinct and Patrolmen Dupee and McGinn of the fourth precinct station.

The blaze was one of the most spectacular that has occurred in the centre of the city for some time. Starting in the northwest corner of the basement in the boiler rooms it spread rapidly and within a few minutes it reached the roof.

The first alarm was sounded at about 1:40 o'clock last night and soon afterward a second alarm was ordered by Chief Weeks. It was not until nearly 4 o'clock today that the firemen had the blaze under control.

The fire was discovered by Frank Colen, who with his wife and year-old son, Robert, live in an apartment on one of the lower floors. Mr. Colen smelled smoke and soon his room became filled. He rushed to the apartment of Mrs. Gardner, the housekeeper, and informed her that the house was afire. She opened a window and shouted to a passerby, who pulled in the alarm.

The building rapidly filled with dense smoke and there was difficulty that tenants found their way to the street. Only one person was injured. Captain Curtis of Hose Company 1, who cut his hands severely in breaking a window.

The building is owned by David Sherwood and Charles Brooks who erected it seven years ago.

300 PER CENT. INCREASE IN DRUNKS AT NEWTON

An increase of nearly 300 per cent. in the number of "drunks" reported in Newton so far this year as compared with 1920. Forty-eight persons have been arrested, against fifteen in the corresponding period of 1920.

BRITISH TORTURE OF IRISH POLITICAL AND MILITARY PRISONERS

The unctuvilised and wholly inexcusable torture suffered by Irish prisoners at the hands of British Military Forces is described completely in the report issued by the American Commission on Conditions in Ireland, following statements made by eye witnesses. How international rules of warfare were violated and how innocent persons were subjected to the most inhuman torture is described aerially in detail, beginning in next Thursday's Boston American.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

"The Kentuckians," at the Park Theatre, is a Triumph for John Fox, Jr., Monte Blue and Paramount

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

"THE KENTUCKIANS," without question one of the best yeas here this season, is the leading attraction at the Park Theatre this week. A story with a punch, with a definite purpose, and a strong theme, its effect is heightened by the work of Monte Blue, the featured player, who is quite the most satisfying actor on the screen.

Taken from the story by John Fox, Jr., who has such a thorough understanding of and deep sympathy for the people of the Kentucky mountains, "The Kentuckians" is remarkably well adapted to filming.

It tells of the struggle of a mountaineer, Boone Stallard, who comes down to the State House to fight the bill put before the House by Randall Marshall. Marshall's bill provides for the governing of the mountain regions by the counties in the valley. Stallard, a member of the greatest feudalist families in Roland County, rises to get emancipation for his people. The struggle, which finally narrows down to Marshall and Stallard, is accentuated by the fact that they are both in love with the Governor's daughter.

One of the unique features is that we have two heroes in love with the heroine and neither one of them in danger of becoming the villain. They are both straightforward, sincere, and working for the good of the State as they each see it. The way the plot is worked out is not only interesting to the average movie fan, but well worth studying by those interested in the advancement of pictures.

Monte Blue has made tremendous strides since the days when he played "atmosphere" and small "bits" for Lasky. His rugged personality, earnestness, and clarity and lack of affectation make him stand out from the ordinary run of leading men.

Wilfred Lytell, younger brother of the better known Bert Lytell, plays the role of Randolph Marshall. While he lacks the ease of Blue as well as his strength, he has at the same time an appealing quality. He has not, however, a vivid enough personality to warrant his being given a role of such importance.

Diana Allen as the Governor's daughter, is attractive but fails to give the role much color. Charles Maigne, the director, understood the strength of the story's theme well enough to know that the less the director brought his personality to the fore, the greater would be the success of the film. He has let the plot carry itself, and it has done itself proud. For this Mr. Maigne deserves much praise.

FLIVVERS

THE OTHER picture on the bill at the Park is "Luxury," starring Rubye de Remer. In this film Miss de Remer's beauty is surpassed only by the mediocrity of her story, the absurdity of the subtitles, and the lack of coherence shown by the continuity and directing, were both done by the same person.

There is much to be said against the practice of having scenarios written by directors. They invariably take an incident which they think will film well and proceed to literally "string along" a lot of other happenings which have little or no connection with the original idea. This is what happened to "Luxury."

It is a detective story of the usual order. A man is kidnapped on his wedding day, and when his bride sets out to rescue him she goes along, as is the way with heroines in films, and is promptly taken prisoner herself. Who dig it? For the first three reels of the film you mildly wonder who it was and for the last two reels you don't care.

OUR OWN CHOICE

SINCE DETECTIVE stories are becoming popular as screen plays we would suggest some of Carolyn Wells' stories in which Fleming Stone, "the master-detective, plays such a heroic role. We further suggest Wesley Barry as "Pinky" and Lewis Stone as the detective.

SOMETHING ELSE AGAIN

WE have had special programs presented with the big super-features to such an extent that there is no longer anything surprising in it. In the big theatres in New York special prologues and dances are given at each performance and are worked out by well known artists to further the atmosphere of the picture show.

In Los Angeles now they are arranging for the presentations of one-act plays as curtain raisers at the movie shows at the Ambassador Theatre. What makes this doubly interesting is the fact that the players for these performances will include the motion picture stars in Hollywood.

Already this program is in progress. Last week they gave Stanley Houghton's "Fancy Free," with Kathleen Clifford, Mary MacLaren and Roy Atwell in the leading roles.

Wallace Reid, who has been playing on the stages of Los Angeles for several years, will appear in many of these playlets, as will H. B. Warner and other stars. Los Angeles is fortunate in being a movie centre, but it is out of the question for other cities to take up the idea unless their casts were made up of non-movie players.

Diana Allen as the "Governor's daughter, is attractive but fails to give the role much color. Charles Maigne, the director, understood the strength of the story's theme well enough to know that the less the director brought his personality to the fore, the greater would be the success of the film. He has let the plot carry itself, and it has done itself proud. For this Mr. Maigne deserves much praise.

DOUG McLEAN ON HIS WAY

DOUGLAS McLEAN, the Thomas Ince star, accompanied by Mrs. McLean, a non-professional, is on his way East to visit New York, Boston and Washington. He will stop first at Philadelphia where he will visit his father and mother and "his sisters, his cousins and his aunts."

In Washington he will take exterior scenes for his next production, "One a Minute," which will have the Capitol as its location.

CAMERA CLICKS

ANITA STEWART'S young brother, George, is fast following his sister on the road to fame. He will play opposite Alice Lake in a new story by Arthur Somers Roche. His last appearance was with Mildred Harris in "Habit."

YALE UNIVERSITY has conferred the degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts on Rex Ingram for his remarkable work in directing "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is not content to rest on his laurels in "The Kid." He is already at work on a new picture to be released soon. The title has not been announced.

WAS it only a coincidence that William D. Taylor was through with his newest picture, "Wealth," the day he turned in his income tax report.

DAUGHTER SHOT BY FATHER IN NEW BEDFORD

Parents Separated a Year Quarreled; Bullet Was Aimed at Mother

New Bedford, March 29.— John Wilkinson of No. 52 Stuart street, Providence, was arraigned in court here today charged with shooting his twenty-seven-year-old daughter, Jeanette.

The latter, suffering from a bullet wound in the face, was at the home of Dr. Parker C. Howland, where she was taken after treatment at St. Luke's Hospital. The physician stated that her condition while extremely serious is not necessarily fatal.

Wilkinson separated from his wife about eighteen months ago and since then has been arrested several times charged with non-support. The wife and daughter worked in a local mill, living at No. 105 Hemlock street.

Wilkinson came on here from Providence and went to their home. When they returned from the mill there was a quarrel, and the police claim Wilkinson drew the revolver and fleurished it. His wife ran from the room, as he fired, and the bullet struck the daughter in the face.

The technical charge against Wilkinson is assault with a dangerous weapon.

COMMISSIONERS OF SPRINGFIELD POLICE OUSTED

Removed From Office by City Council for "Interference" With Probe of Force

Springfield, March 29.—The city police commissioner was removed from office by the city Council sitting in special session. The action was taken under a suspension of ruler order and a unanimous vote. It resulted from what the council considered undue interference in the police department investigation.

The removed members are Attorney Charles F. Spellman, Sylvio Martinelli and Phelps Brown. The special probe committee appeared before the City Council and charged commissioners Spellman and Martinelli with placing obstacles in its way in the probe. No charge was brought against Brown. All three commissioners were removed without opportunity to defend themselves.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth —a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

CONCERT AT VENDOME TO AID CHILD WELFARE

NO MORE BACK PICTURES TO BE PRINTED

Entrants in $5,000 Test Must Now Rely Upon Their Newsdealers

After calling attention to the fact that Test Picture No. 31, with a List of Titles containing the title of that picture are printed today on this page, the first duty of the Title Test Editor is to remind everybody that:

1—There will be no more printing of Back Pictures.

2—Back numbers of the co-operating newspapers are not on sale at this office.

No Book of Titles, or combined Book of Test Pictures and Titles, will be sold in connection with the Test.

All of which means that our friends, who are taking part in the $5,000 Movie-Play Title Test, promoted by the Boston American in association with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, must from this day forward rely upon the newsdealer. If everybody would place a standing order so frequently urged by the Title Test Editor there would be no disappointments. You must have sixty pictures. You SHOULD get them in regular order, in the past, many of you have been greatly helped by the printing of Back Pictures. That is all over.

The Title Test Editor will not ask for space today within which to "describe" the Test or to "call attention" to its 219 awards. He assumes that there now are no "strangers" among us, that no "novice" stands in need of instruction.

CANADIANS ALSO WELCOME.

Before replying to a correspondent, however, Yours Truly desires to say that the Title Test is as wide open to Canadians as to New Englanders. About ten days ago he inadvertently described the Test as one "for New Englanders." He did not mean to be so narrow. Certainly the Boston American is not inclined that way, as will be seen by the Rules of the Test.

Tom J.—I do not know, but if you will send me your address I shall try to help you.

F. L.—Ink, pencil or typewriter, as you please. Why not cut the title from the List of Titles and paste it on?

H. W., Worcester—It was upside down, in part of each title, by mistake.

G. N. R., Hinsdale, M. H.—I like your plan but be sure to use the picture clipped from the paper. Upside down by mistake.

G. H. W.—Thank you. No objection to the business address. The important thing will be to write plainly on the outside of your parcel of pictures. Do not send me any sketches. Must have pictures clipped from the papers.

Harry Williams—If everything is equal the award will be duplicated.

A. of Haverhill—Mistake. Turn it around and send it in with the others at the right time.

G—Positively not. Sixty pictures to the parcel and no duplicates.

A. Cohen—Different title for each of the sixty pictures. If your picture came to you that way they will be acceptable. Certainly clip the title from the list of titles if you like.

Reader—Yes, but be sure to use the Test Picture.

J. D. H., Pittsfield, Mass.—No; the important thing is to use your new address from now on and be sure to write it plainly on your parcel when titles are sent in. Forget about the theatre if there are no co-operating houses in your city. Upside down by mistake.

Walter H. Slattery—I do not understand what you mean by "attaching a small Title Test picture to a large one." Send me an example and I'll write you a personal letter.

Natalie, Maiden—You rated me the titles you have chosen for the first twenty-two Test Pictures and ask me to advise you "whether to send the Test or go right on with it." I'll leave it to the audience. What shall I tell her, folks?

B. F., Fitchburg—No objection to the lead pencil. You wouldn't worry about that rule. Work hard and urge your neice, who lives in another apartment in the same house, to work hard also. Let the matter be decided WHEN you are both entitled to awards. If I had your confidence I should have a "best seller" on the market by the first of September.

J. M. F., Rochester, N. H.—Use the typewriter and good luck to you.

Mrs. J. A. T., Dorchester—I didn't say it is not permitted to use both sides of the paper. I said I should not do it that way. I have been trained to use one side of the paper, and I can't get over it. Good luck!

PLEASE WRITE AGAIN.

Dan McD., Augusta, Me.—I want some help from you and you did not give me your address. When did I say that that was NOT the title of the picture? Please write again.

G. R. P.—That cannot be revealed until the entire story is told. You're in the making.

E. W., Florence—Most certainly!

Iwasfaliver, Providence—Why object to other folks using a pencil? Live and let live. For one thousand men I'd dip a Norwegian pine into the crater of Vesuvius and write the titles with that. Hope you get the diver!

Mac—I shouldn't say that. There was no rule against it. Thank you for your kind words. If you will give me the necessary information, I'll find out for you.

M. A. C., Medford—I fail to see anything in that quotation about "subscriptions." You can get the paper REGULARLY from a newsboy or a news stand. You can get it "regularly" if you buy from a different person every day in the week. But if you do not get it regularly—somewhere, somehow—you will not have the pictures.

Blue Eyes, Allston—Please see answer to Mrs. J. A. T., Dorchester, and forgive me.

Helen, Lowell—The way they make that complaint down this way is—Say, I suppose somebody up in Lowell or down in Fall River will get it all! You can bet they won't give it to Boston folks!" The FACT is that these awards will go to THOSE WHO EARN THEM, whether they live in Shawsheen, St. Albans, Suncook, Salem, Saco or Scituate.

RULES OF THE TEST

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's Movie-Play Title Test is a joint and judgment contest between readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, and readers of the Hearst papers in and out of town in New England or Canada.

One hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given to these two newspapers to those readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the 60 pictures to be published one each day consecutively in the Daily American and Sunday Advertiser. Duplicate awards will be given in both newspapers, the first in the Sunday Advertiser and other duplicates in the Daily American. Readers of one paper will be barred from participating in the awards of the other paper.

The Test will consist of 60 pictures, representing the title of a Motion Picture Play to be printed one each day in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture, Sunday, February 27, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may hereafter be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar any one from participating in this Test.

The Test is open to all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant can be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every title must be neatly written in ink or pencil or typewritten by the person in the American or Sunday Advertiser list which has been run, which is now running or which may hereafter be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar any participant on each title blank.

Do not send duplicate titles in "list" form, i. e., do not write titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct judgment. The Title Test Editor's decision is final.

Duplicate awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and accuracy. But if the title cannot be read it is clear that the two participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. Send in the titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then add them all together at one time. Titles sent in after the Test closes will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand as better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Play Editor, Boston, Mass., or to the Boston Sunday Advertiser Movie-Play Editor, Boston, Mass., by mail or in person within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed to Editor "Movie Play Title Editor, No. 31 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass." Only 200 and such envelopes or package must bear the name and address of the sender. Titles must be addressed on the pencil or typed correctly.

Duplicate pictures in the Test will contain a number or serial number. It will be absolutely necessary that the package be fully covered at postal letter rates, as any of this character goes to the postoffice as "printed matter." Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser will not be responsible for titles on packages which are not fully covered.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Movie Titles will be printed in the Boston American and in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. The list appearing will contain answers to all of the pictures.

Parties who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Play Title Editor, No. 31 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass. Questions will be answered so far as possible through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply at the rate which is in force at the time.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to make such changes in, or addition to, these conditions that they may deem necessary for fairly and accurately conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser in all matters will be final.

Any question which may arise not specifically mentioned in these rules of a sentiment is decided according to the conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

"COME TO NEWPORT," ELKS TELL HARDING

Newport, R. I., March 29.—President Harding, who is an Elk, will be invited to make Newport his Summer capital, following action taken by the Newport Lodge at a regular meeting. Although other invitations have gone forward for the President to spend his Summers in this city, the Elks feel that an invitation from their body will add considerable weight.

ADMITS MOTHER OF CHARLIE CHAPLIN

New York, March 28.—The mother of Charlie Chaplin was admitted to this country after it became known that the film star was determined to sacrifice his fortune to cure his mother's ailments—a mental affliction brought on by the bombing of London by German airplanes during the war.

Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, the mother, who is fifty-five, arrived on the steamship Celtic last Saturday and was detained by the immigration authorities, and sent to Ellis Island for medical examination.

NORTH END BABY SCALDED TO DEATH

Jane Cuneo, four-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cuneo, of No. 211 Salem street, died at the Relief Hospital, from scalds received when a pan of boiling water was spilled on the child. The child was playing on the floor of the kitchen when other children upset the water from the top of the stove. The father received badly scalded hands trying to save Jane.

Revere Beach Opens

Revere Beach, New England's famous seashore resort, with its countless attractions stretched along the vast boulevard facing the ocean, is officially opened, and with the advent of good weather thousands will flock there.

March Month-End Sale—Two Days—Wednesday and Thursday

The Once-a-Month Occasion when we close out Hundreds of Lots at Greatly Reduced Prices

Wonderful bargains may be picked up in this sale. Remnants, Odd Lots, Broken Sizes, Discontinued Styles are all Marked Down to be closed out—this month—in just two days.

Some departments, having practically cleared their stocks in recent sales, had little or no merchandise to reduce for this event. In order not to be left out of the Sale they have gone into the market and secured big bargains from manufacturers who desired to close out lots at price concessions.

Lots advertised were all in stock when this advertisement was sent to the newspapers. Many lots are so small, however, that we cannot guarantee they will be on hand very long after the store opens at 9 A. M.. As this is a Clearance Sale all transactions are final—No Refunds, Credits, or Exchanges.

We will fill Mail Orders if possible, but usually Month-End lots are sold before orders are received never be the woman whom any man would take to the "wild" places. He would never associate her clinging, old-fashioned womanliness with anything except church and quiet home and babies, and the delights of fostering domesticity.

SCORES 'WICKED WOMAN' WHO LURED NAVY OFFICER

She continued:

"I guess we women, when the floodgates of our hearts are opened, and we see all we have built about the men we love—hopes and the sanctities of the hearthstone—all crumbled away, I guess we women are pretty savage, after all. I am not the woman who has ever cared to throw money around. I have always helped my husband to save. I have always influenced him not to spend. And what I saved him, he took outside and squandered on a wicked woman, spent on a bold woman who, probably, now is laughing at him; threw at the feet of a hard-hearted vixen who took it with one hand while she scorned him with the other.

"I wonder what use it is for women to try to be good and kind and helpful, anyway. Men act so made that the women who prey upon them the most callously are the women to get their love and their devotion. I tell you I have had a most bitter awakening.

"They explained to me—the captain and others—that my husband must have been keeping company with this wicked woman for four months. In the silence here I repeat the words to myself—'four months. 'Four whole months.' I pinch myself. I cannot believe it is true.

"Then I recall all that happened between us in four months. I remember how he came home, the last time three weeks ago. How the children went to meet him. How he loved them. How he took them to Sunday School and then went to get them. Those babies adore their father—just set their eyes by him."

The little woman pressed her lips firmly together as if to shut out the tears. Then she spoke with the desperation of the good woman at bay:

"They shall never know their father's disgrace—if I can keep it from them. To the babies—he's dead from now on, not living, a fugitive, with somebody's money. Dead, just dishonorably dead. And their widowed mother will go out to work for them."

Thus Mrs. Lynam made her great resolve. The philosophy of despair is here, that, and a wonder still keen and aching, that ever the man she loved could so turn traitor.

SAVED ON $100 MONTHLY.

"You can't imagine what a hero my husband always seemed to me. And how good he was to us, and how happy we were together. Often he has wanted us to spend all he made and to start keeping house in a very pretentious way, and I have said, 'Hubby, dear, we can't afford it. Let's try to save. We want to send the kiddies to college when the time comes.'

"I had just $100 a month for months past—my allotment. He kept the rest to save for a real home by and by, something we owned, where we didn't pay rent. And I saved on my $100 a month. I sewed for the children. I did every bit of my own work—all—all—to help him. And what I saved that other woman took, and then he stole.

"What would she do for him? She had not married him seven years ago when he was only a common sailor. She had not been willing to eke out an existence on a pitifully small pay of a sailor while she encouraged him to try for promotion. The great joy which comes to a woman when she bears a child to the man she loves was not hers. That wasn't between her and him. That was ours—that joy—my husband's and my own. Then why should he turn to her? He didn't—in his right mind.

THEFT FROM FAMILY GREATER.

"If I had my husband back he would be my husband still, and I would stand by him through the disgrace. I would help him to retrieve after he had paid the penalty. That's the wife of it. He would then see the difference between the woman who loved him and the woman who led him to his ruin."

There was quiet in the tiny little bedroom. From the wall looked down the picture of a young man and woman, in their wedding clothes. It was Lynam and his wife, taken seven years ago. The young woman looked up at it, and her eyes overflowed.

"I little thought then—" she began but did not finish.

Then, concluding, she spoke as any woman might speak. "All the world —of course, mentions the money find the money they say he took. But, to me the theft of that money is as nothing to the greater theft he committed at home—the theft of our respect for him, the theft of all the pride of his youth. That's the real crime. The money was only an incidental."

"Gets-It" The Corn and Callus Peeler

This Corn Remover Is Guaranteed.

Relief from corn suffering follows the application of "Gets-It" almost as quickly as pain follows the thrust of a pin or knife into the flesh. Not only hard corns or soft corns but every kind of corn or callus surrenders to "Gets-It" and peels right off. It takes just a few seconds to stop the pain with two or three drops. Go to your druggist today. Get a bottle of "Gets-It." Cost but a trifle anywhere. Your money back if not satisfied. Mfd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"SPEEDER"

BEBE DANIELS.

Santa Ana, Cal., March 29.—Bebe Daniels, the popular motion picture star, was found guilty of speeding by a jury in Justice John R. Cox's Court and sentenced to ten days in Orange County Jail after a new trial was denied. An appeal was taken to a higher court.

PARIS GREEN ON CAKE KILLS PITTSFIELD GIRL

Lanox, March 29.—Mistaking paris green for fancy coloring for frosting for a birthday cake, Miss Catherine Varand, aged seventeen, of Pittsfield, died after tasting of the frosting.

She had made a birthday cake and colored it with paris green.

FALL RIVER PRIEST WILL GO TO TAUNTON

Fall River, March 28.—Rt. Rev. Daniel F. Feehan has transferred Rev. Henry M. Staunton, curate at St. William's Church in this city, to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Taunton, where he will occupy the position of assistant.

MERCURY GOES FROM 73 TO 23 DEGREES

Change in Temperature Remarkably Sudden and Comes Near Smashing Record

weather tomorrow, accompanied by rising temperatures.

The cold snap was general throughout practically the entire country, doing untold damage to the fruit crop in the West, and seriously endangering the Kansas wheat yield.

The coldest spot in New England today was Greenfield, Me., where the thermometer registered only six above. In the West freezing temperatures were reported from all sections north of the Kansas-Oklahoma boundary.

One of the most unusual instances of the vagaries of New England weather was evidenced in Pittsfield, where from a Summer heat of 73 the mercury shot down 48 degrees in seven hours, bringing with it the worst blizzard of the Winter. In hill towns surrounding Pittsfield today drifts fifteen inches deep were reported.

ELECTRICAL DISPLAY.

After a day of extreme heat, accompanied by a dense fog off the coast, the cold wave struck Boston last night following a series of heavy thunder showers accompanied by electrical displays. During the day at least one probable heat prostration was reported, when J. W. Ryan of Wakefield fainted in his office at No. 24 Milk street and was taken to the Haymarket Relief station.

By midnight the temperature had reached 42, and the descent from that hour was gradual, but constant until 23 was registered at 7 o'clock. Then the mercury began a slow rise.

The cold snap came out of the West, moving rapidly eastward from the Great Lakes region, and storm warnings were sent out early for New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

Accompanied by a 78-mile gale, the cold wave struck New York and neighboring cities, tearing off roofs of buildings, uprooting trees and causing the deaths of at least two persons. The temperature dropped rapidly with a heavy downfall of rain, turning into sleet and hail. In Brooklyn Cabrira Lance, six years old, was crushed to death in the wreckage of an abandoned motion picture house which collapsed. A number of persons were injured by falling signs and uprooted trees.

In Plainfield, N. J., houses were unroofed.

15-Inch Snow Drifts in the Berkshires

Pittsfield, March 29.—The worst blizzard of the Winter was raging here late last night with thermometer at 30, a drop of 48 degrees in seven hours. In hill towns surrounding Pittsfield drifts are 15 inches deep.

BURROUGHS DIES ON TRAIN IN OHIO

World Famous Naturalist Expires While Returning Home From California

During the last few years of his life Burroughs attended an annual reunion with Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison, when the three men enjoyed themselves in the country, engaging in a friendly wood-chopping and tree-climbing contests.

On his last birthday, his eighty-fourth, Burroughs displayed the same indomitable energy and virility which led an observer to quote Mark Twain as saying: "Hang him, isn't this chap ever going to grow old?"

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

First Appointment by Coolidge a Democrat

Washington, March 29.—Vice-President Coolidge for the first time exercised one of the few prerogatives he possesses during political lines by naming John E. Walker head of the Senate Legislative Drafting Bureau. Curiously, his first appointee is a Democrat, and was formerly secretary to Representative Kitchin of North Carolina.

FLAHERTY, K. OF C. HEAD, OPPOSES THE SALOON

Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of the Knights of Columbus declares he is unalterably opposed to the saloon and that the organization of which he is head will forever maintain its rule of excluding intoxicating liquor from all its affairs and those engaged in the liquor business from its membership. He believes "a return to modern sense will mean a legalizing of moderately stimulating beverages such as beer and light wines."

CHARLES S. O'CONNOR TO SPEAK TO A. A. R. I. R.

Charles S. O'Connor of the Boston School Committee will be the speaker at a mass meeting Thursday evening, in Knights of Columbus hall, No. 1334 Tremont street, under the auspices of Thomas Whalen council, American Association for Recognition of Irish Republic.

SENATOR WALSH SPEAKS TONIGHT TO VETERANS

United States Senator David I. Walsh will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting to be held this evening in Kelly's Auditorium, Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, under the auspices of the Howard Associates, composed chiefly of veterans of the World War. It will be the first appearance of Senator Walsh in Charlestown in five years. An entertainment will precede the address. Robert L. Lee, chairman of the Ward 4 Democratic committee, will preside.

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slim by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets, those harmless little fat reducers that simplify the diets of the famous Marmola Prescription.

If you fat, don't wait for the doctor's advice, do now to your druggist or write to the Marmola Co., 4611 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., and for one dollar procure a large case of these tabletts.

They reduce two, three or four pounds a week without exercise, dieting or any unpleasant effect whatever. If too fat try this today.—Advertisement.

Special Inducements to First Members

The exceptional values and the savings on these player-pianos are so evident that we anticipate a large enrollment of members from the start. The allotment of players from the factory is 500, of which 350 will be offered from our Boston store. This means that when 350 members have joined this THRIFT CLUB it will close.

Our entire stock of new players is offered in this THRIFT CLUB priced from $412.00, and all the club privileges go with every instrument sold.

These instruments are not assembled. The player action as well as the piano itself is built in one factory. They are standard 88-note, full-sized players, and are designed along Colonial lines. The cases are finished in beautiful mahogany or oak, they contain all the latest improvements that go toward the making of a perfect player-piano, and are fully guaranteed in writing.

We doubt that instruments of this quality could be sold by other dealers for anywhere near this price, or even by us under ordinary conditions, but they being manufacturers we can make this Thrift Club price as low as $412, and payments can be made on the special club terms as low as

$3 A WEEK

A small deposit insures immediate delivery of one of these beautiful new 88-note, full size, thoroughly guaranteed player-pianos—the latest style 1921 models, in either oak or mahogany.

STEELS LED IN A GRADUAL RECOVERY

Motors and Oils Mixed in Second Hour Movement; Rails Show Improvement

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular at noon, having ranged in the previous hour to the end of the morning the list was about evenly divided between gains and losses. Most of the rally and gains were closely followed by rails. The improvement took in almost every active issue. The market was active, first hour transactions approximating 250,000 shares. The bear effort to depress prices had more vigor at the opening than later. Call money opened at 6½ per cent, but soon lowered exchange market was steady, demand sterling being first quoted at 3.51¼, up 3c.

YIELDED AT ONCE.

The market yielded to selling pressure at once, opening off at a loss to one rally, and after a brief halt in the morning another. As a rule declines were fractional, but there were a number of issues to sag several points during the first hour. U. S. Steel shaded and held steady on every subsequent sale for half an hour. The decline was general, motors and tires were subjected to realization selling and the market loosed were found in these shares and oils. Houston was the weakest of the latter. Coppers were quiet, although it was announced that the Utah, Ray Consolidated, Chino and Nevada Consolidated properties would cut down immediately. Trading in rails was on a small scale, and they was not much done in steels. Most of the business was in oils, motors and tires. The market had no outstanding feature. At the end of an hour prices were above the opening level.

SHORT INTEREST REDUCED.

The short interest has been greatly reduced, according to reports from the Wall Street district. It amounted to more than a million shares a week or ten days ago, but covering induced by the recent advance cut it in half and left some stocks vulnerable to the renewed attack by bear raiders. After the close of the exchange yesterday the borrowing demand for stocks was said to be only moderate. Industrials loaned at 6 per cent, rails at 5 and 4 cents. Dividend omissions have increased the gloom which is hanging like a pall over the district. There had diminished investment buying. Although the latter is now the only real support, an odd lot character. It was of sufficient volume to be a market factor, the public is less involved in speculation than for many years, and it is doubtful, if anything short of a sustained bull movement will revive general interest.

COPPER PRICE IS SAID TO BE HIGHER

It is reported that leading agencies have effected sales of copper for future delivery at 13½ cents a pound and that 12¾ cents has been paid for spot shipments. This is an advance of a quarter of a cent a pound. It is estimated, however, that the red metal surplus amounts to 1,000,000,000 pounds, the result of the shutting down of mines.

Sales of copper in February are officially figured at 74,000,000 pounds, while production amounted to 118,-320,000 pounds. Domestic shipments amounted to 54,316,000 pounds and exports to 27,979,000.

DIVIDEND PESSIMISM CAUSED RECESSIONS

By BROADAN WALL
Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

New York, March 29.—Another wave of pessimism relative to the stability of dividends now being paid by certain corporations and recordings have shown a severe curtailment, more than offset as a market influence yesterday the favorable showing made by the local Federal Reserve bank in its statement of condition, issued after the close of business last Saturday.

The selling action of Baldwin, Sears, Roebuck Company, and of the United States Smelting in passing dividends, due at this time, had a depressing influence. While it is true that these actions are based on the past showings made by these companies the uncertainty created by the announcements has left many persons with surplus funds in deciding whether or not this is the time to purchase stocks.

DECREASE FIGURED IN PRODUCTION OF COTTON

Production of cotton for the whole world during the season 1920-21 is estimated at from 20,000,000 to 22,000,000 bales, says the statistical service department of the Merchants' National Bank of Boston. This is 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 less than was raised in the preceding season, and from 7,000,000 to 9,000,000 less than the high record crop of 1914-15.

The cotton crop in this country during the current season is 13,345,000 bales, according to the final ginning report, or the largest since 1914, when 15,965,000 bales were produced. The Egyptian crop is 1,237,000 bales, compared with 1,139,000 last season. The production of India is about 2,544,000 bales, compared with 4,676,000.

DETROIT AUTO PLANTS ON FULL TIME MONDAY

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—One hundred per cent. production schedules will be put into effect in practically every automobile plant in Detroit beginning Monday.

Less Coal Mined

Coal production is decreasing. For the third week of March the output of bituminous is estimated at 6,468,000 tons, a decrease of 423,000 as compared with the preceding week, while the anthracite total was but 1,688,109 tons.

Town and City Loans

Worcester, Mass., will receive proposals until noon March 30, for $400,000 of notes, dated March 31 and payable $325,000 in 1922 and $75,000 in 1923.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, March 29.—The cotton market opened 2 to 15 points lower on weakness of Liverpool cables and on local and southern liquidation. The bulk sold was the heaviest seller. Wall street also sold on the bearish weekly statistical recession and on the unfavorable weather reports. Trade buying was light. Spot houses showed declines of 15 points. Opening prices were: May, 12.85; July, 12.85. October, 13.40; December, offered 13.68; January, 13.70.

40,000 WORKERS ASKED TO ACCEPT 25 P. C. CUT

Chicago, March 29.—A demand that 40,000 clothing workers in Chicago agree to a flat wage reduction of 25 per cent. and take measures to promote greater efficiency among those workers who work by the week, was made today by the National Industrial Federation of Clothing Manufacturers to the Board of Arbitration established by mutual agreement between the workers and manufacturers June 22, 1920. Action was postponed pending hearings by both sides.

BOSTON'S BILLS FORCE LOAN OF $14,000,000

Boston will borrow $14,000,000 to pay its bills for the current year until taxes for 1921 begin to come in, the treasurer said in an address before the City Council.

Authority for obtaining the loan of $14,000,000 in amounts needed from time to time was granted by a temporary loan order passed by the City Council.

March Rail Earnings

It is expected that earnings of Boston & Maine railroad, the only one in New England now paying dividends from its own earnings, will be satisfactory. The new coal contract obtained by its receivers, which becomes effective May 1, will reduce fuel costs of this line about $2 a ton. This will be a benefit, however, by increased State of Maine taxation.

Shoe Exports

January exports of boots and shoes numbered 1,113,509 pairs, valued at $3,940,005, against 1,332,332 pairs at $4,923,873 in January, 1920, and 1,846,364 pairs at $6,157,779 in January, 1919. The average price of children's shoes was $2.14 for the month, against $1.91 in January, 1920. Men's shoes averaged from $4.65 to $4.20, and women's from $3.77 to $3.41.

Meat Consumption Decreasing

One result of high prices for meat is decreased consumption in this country. Last year the average consumption was 56.4 pounds per person, as compared with seventy-eight pounds ten years ago.

Corporation Reports

March sales by Sears, Roebuck & Co. are officially estimated at $19,000,000, 10 per cent. less than a year ago but 14 per cent. more than two years ago. The company's reports for last year:

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Internal Revenue receipts for March are a total deficit of $67,974, which is $13,209 less than for the corresponding 1920 month.

The semi-annual report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad will be held on April 20, and book closing will be for the open April 8.

The month of February this year the net debt of the United States Treasury decreased $34,304,902, compared with $85,126,229 on December 31, 1920, a reduction of $624,190. Net combined debt amounted to $24,013,443 against $24,037,748 on December 31, 1920.

Owing to a reduction in the price of crude petroleum the Atlantic Refining Company has curtailed operations on its oil land leases in Oklahoma. These actions may help to relieve the congestion in the oil fields.

Manhattan & Hoskins have increased cash from $175,000 to $500,000 and the issue of 8,250 additional shares at $100 per share commonly will raise $1,650 of the new shares to $2,500,000.

Certificates of incorporation of companies have been filed by the Hydroke Gunmetal Products Company, capital $100,000, and the Auburn Last Company, capital $300,000.

The second dividend of 10 per cent. to Second National Bank of Malden will be open for payment today.

Boston Elevated Railway Co. has issued $2,000,000 par value of 6 per cent. 20-year bonds, dated April 1, 1921, and due April 1, 1941, par value $1,000 each, interest payable April 1 and October 1. The bonds have been filed by the Hydroke Gunmetal Products Company, capital $100,000, and the Auburn Last Company, capital $300,000.

The second dividend of 10 per cent. to Second National Bank of Malden will be open for payment today.

TAFT WILL PROBE AMERICAN SMELTING

New York, March 29.—Former President William Howard Taft has accepted the invitation of the Guggenheim interests and will conduct an investigation into the affairs of the American Smelting & Refining Company.

Steel and Iron Prices

The Iron Age quotes the average price of eight principal iron and steel products at $39.14 per ton, which compared with $39.14 for the preceding week. The average price on a corresponding 1920 date was $80. The present price level maintained by the U. S. Steel Corporation averages $42.49.

Wall Street Briefs

The latest silver purchases by the United States Treasury are 23,300 ounces for Philadelphia mint and 1,000,000 for Denver.

The meeting at which the General Motors directors will declare the regular quarterly dividend has been postponed from March 31 to April 6.

Daniel Dillon and E. N. Post, formerly with Schaffler Bros. & Co., have formed a copartnership for transacting a general brokerage business with offices at No. 52 Broadway.

The steamship Aquitania has arrived at New York with approximately $1,000,000 in gold from Montevideo.

Judge Robert William H. Taft has selected Frederick Ecker, Metropolitan Life Insurance man, to assist in investigation of affairs of American Smelting & Refining Co.

The adjourned meeting of Goodyear Tire stockholders will be held on April 6.

Where Are The Railroads Headed?

With the troubles of the country's roads apparently multiplying from day to day, and the outlook for railroad securities appearing more gloomy, the answer to the above question is of extreme importance.

Therefore, we have compiled a circular covering the entire situation, having endeavored to outline what the future holds forth for railroad security holders, and this circular will be sent free to anyone upon request.

Treasurer of American Unit Tells How Funds Relieve and Restore Business

How the funds being raised by the American Committee for Relief in Ireland are being expended in that stricken country, despite attempts to prevent the workers be told by James G. Douglas, No. 53 Kevins Park, Rathmines, Dublin, treasurer of the American unit, in the following cablegram:

"Since I have been connected with relief work I have had some heartbreaking cases of people driven from home or their homes burned and everything lost. Fortunately in most cases neighbors or surrounding towns have sheltered or fed them and people have not actually starved though thousands have suffered. It is usual in war of all kinds the innocent suffer most.

"When I received the first sum of money from the Irish Victim Fund I immediately consulted A. E. and the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

"It was agreed to form a National Relief Organization or ... relief work and to try and collect further support from all over the world." Our first aim is to deal with urgent cases which are not being already. Our next aim is to try and provide employ mild, providing only that teachers in them must speak and read English and show some acquaintance with American institutions. At once the Japanese made strenuous objection, though a few, like the Christian minister, Rev. T. Okamura, favored this control. The Buddhists, the teachers, the Japanese newspapers, practically the entire Japanese population, joined in opposition. A strong Japanese lobby was established, and the attitude of this solid opposition was distinctly menacing.

Governor Charles J. McCarthy had originally expressed regret that the bill had been introduced, believeing it tended to create friction. Certain men came to him who had served in the army and navy intelligence during the war and told him something of things they had learned during this period. They informed him that the bill had been drafted at their request.

The Governor then took the stand that the bill must be passed. He realized the need of control, and he also realized that to back down would only make the Japanese more arrogant.

The House of Representatives passed the bill, but the Senate killed it, by a vote of eleven to four. Senators explain that it was their understanding that the planters objected to the bill in the fear that it would cause trouble. The Japanese contend they wanted the bill passed.

The bill passed gained a notable victory. Before their solid front the Americans had backed down. As in every case in which the government at Washington has made concessions to "Japanese pride," the result was a marked increase of arrogance and tightening of solidarity on the part of the Japanese. The strike of 1920, racial from start to finish, was the direct result.

In the Autumn of 1918 a commission of four well known educators from the mainland was appointed by the United States Commissioner of education to make a survey of education in the islands. In the matter of Japanese language schools this commission was unsparing in its condemnation, as Japanising and utterly un-American in their influence. The commission recommended their abolition root and branch.

The report of this commission of printed in Washington, 1920, No. 16, of the Department of Interior, Bureau of Education, entitled "A survey of Education in Hawaii." It can be obtained through the Bureau of Education, at Washington. It is scholarly, scientific and full of most startling statistical and other information. It does not leave the defender of the Japanese schools a leg to stand on. So startling is it that had it been produced under other auspices its authors would be assailed as "jingoes," "yellow journalists," "cheap politicians." Get it and read it!

Hawaiians Lose Fight Once More

Some Hawaiians read it. A bill was introduced in the special session of the Legislature late last Autumn abolishing the Japanese language schools. Lorrin A. Thurston, owner and editor of the Advertiser, as eloquent speaker and a man of great influence, descendant of a missionary and prominent back in the days of royalty, became the Japanese champion. He won over the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, and the Legislature instead of abolishing the Japanese schools, passed a bill providing for their "supervision." Once more Hawaii knuckled down.

"Japanese language schools," they are called. They should be designated as "Japan schools, founded and maintained to make Hawaiian-born Japanese loyal subjects of Japan."

Twenty thousand pupils they have, these 175 schools with 400 tea here from Japan, few of whom speak English at all. In the American public schools in 1919 there were 17,469 Japanese pupils, and only 395 Americ children. Practically all of these 17,546 Japanese children went to the Japanese schools for an hour or over as long as two hours before our school session. Beginning at 8 o'clock and again for periods of one to three hours varying with age, as they left their schools in the afternoon. Those attended Japanese schools on Saturdays and during our school vacations.

As to high school education, 487 pupils attend a Japanese "Independent" high school, 418 a Japanese Buddhist high school, both in Honolulu, and more than 400 attend two Japanese high schools in Hilo. Total enrollment of both boys' and girls' Japanese high schools, more than 1,200. In McKinley High School the Americans and Japanese are enrolled in equal numbers, 250 Chinese, 115 part-Hawaiian and 93 "Anglo-Saxon" pupils.

Example of What American Japs Learn

Here is a sample of contents of the Japanese school reader, "Kokuji Tokuhon," for many book No. 4," used in the fourth year, or for boys and girls of about ten years of age, the only book used. It consists of fifty-six lessons as follows

Nos. 1 and 2—Kusunoki' Father and Son (a story regarded as the best illustration of Japanese patriotism). 3—Letter of inquiry and answer. ←One kind of bean. 5—Hojoi, Yasutoki (Hojo was a family name of a feudal hero). 6—Brothers. 7—Hanahono (A story of flower culture). 8—Ikon and Mon. 9—Ikon and Mon, explaining significance of Ikon the Buddhist memorial service). 10 and 11—Imperial Japan (descriptive of the empire; notes that from January 1 to 11 in direct line from Jimmu Tenno who became emperor 2,20 years ago). 12—Tea. 13—Tea drinking places of interest). 14—Silk worms and tea (includes insect and silk worm). 15—Wa of Yamanouchi (Japanese family crests). 17—Tembizan (relics used for carrying banners).

The apex of the discussion was reached just before I came away from Honolulu in the mail of January when Tokutaro Ikeguchi and Vaughan MacCaughey Superintendent of Public Instruction to hold the July examination of the Japanese language school teachers in the Japanese language district of Honolulu. That action only was the latest known American attempt to make to pass any kind of examination.

Americans Back Down, Japs Win

The Japanese had gained a notable victory (the school bill contest). Before their solid front the Americans had backed down. As in every case in which the government at Washington has made concessions to "Japanese pride," the result was a marked increase of arrogance and tightening of solidarity on the part of the Japanese. LOCAL BOY PICKED TO LICK THE PRIDE OF PITTSBURGH

By JACK CONWAY.

Eddie Shevlin, Roxbury's stur dy welterweight, is expected to go to the post a favorite when he bat tles Jack Perry of Pittsburgh in a ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight. Close followers of fistic affairs are of the opinion that Shevlin's ability as a boxer and ring g eneral will enable him to offset Perry's aggressiveness and hitting power.

Shevlin can't afford to receive a setback this p. m., as he is hot on the trail of Nate Siegal, boss of the New England welterweights. Siegal has not displayed much enthusiasm about meeting Shevlin, and would be able to sidestep a match with the Roxbury warrior if the latter should be upset tonight.

Perry, of course, has a chance to down Shevlin. Any fighter who can knock out Johnny Griffith of Akron, O., and beat Steve Latto as a lot of this type of ring men doesn't have to worry a great deal about entering a ring with any of our top flight and welterweights.

Jack Britton, world's champion, and Ted (Kid) Lewis are the only welterweights who have ever beaten Perry. It is not a disgrace to be outpointed by either of these glove wielders as they are the recognized leaders in their boxing division.

Perry Also College Boxing Instructor

Like Shevlin, Perry is a college boxing instructor. He has charge of the boxing classes at Carnegie Institute, while Roxbury Eddie is teaching the fine points of the manly art to the boys at Dartmouth.

Perry is eager to get off to a good start here, as he would like to secure matches with Siegal and Kirby at local clubs.

The semi-final of ten rounds will find Johnny Buckley of South Boston batting Freddy Williams of Dorchester. Harry Mitchell of Providence and Jack Mansfield of Lawrence will box eight frames, while Eddie McCarthy of Medford and Al Murray of Providence will travel the six-round distance.

Frasca Likes New Job as Boxing Manager

Charley Frasca, past president of the Newsboys' Union, called today to inform us that he is finding his new job as manager of a boxer just as exciting as selling newspapers on a busy corner was in the old days when the various papers got out an extra edition on the slightest provocation. He knows that Charley is directing the ring affairs of Harry Silva of the West End. Silva is unlike a lot of boxers, promoters and managers of boxers we know. Instead of spending his spare evenings around hotel lobbies and street corners, he uses his extra time to improve his education. Harry is a student at the Suffolk Law School and in due time will be admitted to the Massachusetts bar. He should develop into a lawyer with a punch.

At the Commonwealth Club last Saturday night Silva put aside his case books long enough to score a knockout victory over Jake Donavan of Brockton. Silva stands ready to hand out similar treatment to Mickey Donovan as soon as the latter recovers from his recent injury to one of his optics.

Being a law student, we suppose Silva could secure an injunction against his opponent's punches.

Casino Manager Seeks Opponent for Reid

Jack Murphy, matchmaker of the Casino A. C. of Lynn, announced today that Jackie Clark has withdrawn from his match with Pal Reid which was booked to be staged at the Casino A. C. of Lynn Thursday night. Clark stated in his wire that he is suffering from tonsilitis. Murphy is now busy trying to secure a suitable opponent for Reid. Jack Sheppard of Pennsylvania will probably be his selection.

Unlike a whole lot of promoters we might mention, Murphy's chief concern when Clark withdrew from the tussle was over those fans who have already purchased tickets for the bout. He informs this writer that the club stands ready to redeem all tickets in the hands of persons who do not wish to attend a substitute show. Apparently even the boxing game is beginning to see some daylight.

Start Drive Against Charity (?) Boxers

Over in New York they are making a drive against the boxers who are making fortunes appearing at so-called charity shows. Willie Jackson, for example, was paid $16,000 for boxing Billy Murray at a benefit show staged in Madison Square Garden for the Irish Relief Fund. Kansas was given $8,000 for his services. If Jackson was paid $8,000 and Kansas $2,000, they would be getting as much as their services are worth.

Most of Braves' Vets Agree With O'Neill

Mickey, as you may have observed, is strong for what he's going for, but none the less most of the veteran Braves agree that he has a lot of reasons for his enthusiasm.

Another protege of the same Michael's is beginning to excite comment and admiration hereabouts, also. F. Theodore Hawk, young infielder Theodore has been playing with the scrubs, and showed enough his first day out to push a couple of rookies to the bench. He has been improving steadily, until at present Oscar Dugey, who directs the destinies of the seconds, is more or less enthusiastic about him.

So is Manager Mitch., who hasn't seen so much of the youth. Both declare that he fields a ground ball as smoothly as any infielder can, and has the regular infield arm, a wing that can snap the ball across the diamond without loss of time whatever.

ONE UPSET IN SECOND NORTH AND SOUTH ROUND

Pinehurst, N. C., March 28.—There was one upset in the second round of the woman's North and South golf championship tournament when Mrs. John D. Chapman of Greenwich defeated Miss Sarah Fownes of Pittsburgh on the home green. After trailing all the way Mrs. Chapman squared the match by winning the seventeenth with a three and then took the eighteenth with a par five.

Mrs. Dorothy C. Hurd of Pittsburgh, present title holder, found Mrs. Hope Gibson of the Hamilton Golf Club o. Canada, on the top of her game and had to play her finest to win, 2 to 1. Mrs. Gibson led by one hole going to the fourteenth, but she weakened at the end.

Mrs. Gibson went out in 46 and Mrs. Hurd in 41. They played the bye hole coming in, Mrs. Hurd having a medal score of 84 and Mrs. Gibson 86.

Mrs. J. S. Pritchard of Chicago won from Miss Louise Elkins, Pittsburgh, 5 and 4; Mrs. D. Chapman of New York beat Miss Sarah Fownes, Pittsburgh, 1 up, and Mrs. F. C. Latis, Jr., of Chicago beat Miss Dorothy Richards of Cleveland, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Pritchard meets Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Latis plays Mrs. Chapman today.

Henry Mowles is moulding athletic interest at the University of Vermont. More than 100 young men with track and field ambitions are reporting to him daily, and although the majority come to him with little experience, the marks achieved by several indicate an excellent season for his team.

A coach, whose sole duties are those of building a track array, is something new to Vermont. It was a gymnasium janitor who discovered and developed Al Gutterson, Vermont's most celebrated athlete and former American champion and Olympic competitor in the running broad jump. Mowles, who is still under treatment for wounds received "over there," will be remembered by Bostonians as captain of the 1916 Dorchester High team and member of the former B. A. A. outfits.

Sheriff Haddock, president of that most unusual body, the United States Amateur Hockey Association, has lost one more vote for his re election if the message contained in a telegram from Leonard Peterson, manager of the Eveleth, Horked Club, can be taken as an indication of the latter's feelings.

"Our team, of all teams," wires Leo, "has not had a square deal. Owing to the fact that we have no artificial ice, we particularly requested that Haddock place our team in the semi-final round for the national championship in order that the fans who have supported us would have a chance to see some of the big games. I understand that at the same time the B. A. A. asked to be omitted from the semi-final round because of the long trip involved Haddock paid no attention to the request. Now a month has passed since we won our division title; our ice disappeared three weeks ago, and we are now forced to enter the finals after a long layoff and must play all the games on unfamiliar rinks."

36 REPORT FOR SPRING GRID PRACTICE

Captain Kane and Tolbert Only "H" Men to Report to Coach Fisher

Thirty-six men reported for the first day of Spring football practice at Harvard. Only two veterans took part, Captain Kane, who coached the ends and backs, and Jim Tolbert, the big guard, who, however, hopes to finish his courses so as to graduate this Summer. Tolbert is putting the shot, and his football work consisted of throwing the medicine ball about for a few minutes attired in his track costume.

Coach Fisher was in charge of practice. His assistants were Dr Fairchild, centre coach for the past several years. Jimmie Knox, who scouts the Crimson's principal opponents as well as look after the second team and Winslow Boston, quarterback in 1919.

The hour's practice was preceded by a short talk, and was given entirely to conditioning work.

YOUNG PINCHOT KEEPS JOE LYNCH STEPPING

Pittsburgh, March 29.—Bantamweight Champion Joe Lynch was fortunate to win a hairline newspaper verdict over Young Pinchot in their scrap here in ten rounds. The latter was a ringer put in at the last minute and had the title holder backing away more than once. The only knockdown of the bout came in the seventh, when Lynch dropped his rival for the count of nine.

Tech Rifle Competition

The Rifle Club at Technology will hold a competition to be run for three weeks in order to pick out a winning team of sharpshooters. The new rifle range next to the Tech athletic field is now serving as a shooting gallery for the Tech marksmen. The contestants are allowed to shoot at any targets as they desire at 25 cents a target, and the three highest scores will be registered in the final count.

Real Fans Will Get Busy Right Away

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

There is a neat little opportunity at hand for you baseball fans to show you are real sports.

The Back Bay Post of the American Legion uncovered it, and Dick Sears, the intrepid photographer of the International Film Service, and recently of Uncle Sam's picture-taking department overseas, communicated the facts to the Boston American accompanied by a plea for assistance.

It seems that recently a fire broke out in the Red Cross Hut, at the West Roxbury hospital for shell shock victims of the world war, and destroyed all the athletic equipment provided for the doughboys—all except one battered fielder's glove, which can't possibly be stretched around the 150 men who are anxious to use it during these warm Spring days.

Last Friday, a girlie lad showed up with a ten-cent ball and a 15-cent bat, and told the boys to go to it. And the boys did but of course you can't play a real honest to goodness ball game with a 10-cent ball and a 15-cent bat and a badly worn fielder's glove. Ten-cent balls don't stand up under the pounding, and 15-cent bats have to be handled carefully or they'll break. And anyway, you really need a mitt and a catcher's mask and chest protector and finger gloves for the infielders and outfielders. And the latter is a trend of the times, as the fans at Shell Shock Hospital saw a few days of each sort of fielding as they can play more than one game at a time and so that if one of the gloves gets lost, they don't have to stop the game until you find it.

Well, that's the situation and the Back Bay Post, or some of its members at least, thought it would be a great idea to ask Boston baseball fans to contribute a little to make up a fund of about $250—for the boys who are trying to forget the rigor of the days spent in the trenches, the horrible memories that dinned in their ears for so long that their nerves get a bit shaky.

A. J. McNeil is adjutant of the Back Bay Post of the Legion, and has been named as treasurer. No one of you regular fellows with a pair of overjeans that you don't owe any longer to Mac, addressed A. J. McNeil, Back Bay Post American Legion, Huntington avenue, city, acknowledgments will be published in the Boston American

Title Run Billed for Sabbath

New York, March 29.—For the first time in the history of the local association of the Amateur Athletic Union junior and senior metropolitan cross-country championships will be staged on the Sabbath.

This was decided last night, when the championship committee met in the local A. A. U. headquarters and selected April 24 for the junior title race and May 1 as the date for the running of the senior event.

Both races will be held over the Van Cortlandt Park course. Every competitor covering the course under 35 minutes will be awarded a time prize.

Reynolds Lost to Penn

Philadelphia, March 29.—Due to intestinal trouble, Bill Reynolds, Jr., Penn's star jumper, who was unable to compete during the indoor season, also will be lost to the Penn team during the outdoor season. Typhoid fever late last Fall caused his physicians to advise him to give up athletics during the Winter. An X-ray just taken showed that he is suffering from intestinal trouble. He has been ordered to give up all track work.

Reynolds was one of the best high jumpers in collegiate ranks. Last year he won the event in the Penn relay meet defeating such stars as Loudon and Murphy. His loss will be severe by fact, by Penn.

SCHOOLBOY NOTES

If Willard Baird, crack runner and captain of South Boston High's track team, decided to enter college, he should equal, if not better, the marks set up by former local intercholastic stars who have gained laurels in intercollegiate circles.

It was the consensus of opinion among the followers of schoolboy track meets who witnessed his performance in the 220-yard dash that it was the best race ever turned in by him. The equalling of Bill Nolan's record in the event hardly tells the tale, for with the right kind of competition he would have broken the mark that was once thought invincible.

West Roxbury has prospects of a fast baseball team this coming season. The first practice was held yesterday. About forty candidates reported full of ginger. James F. Duffey, former Boston College athlete, will have charge of the squad. Meehan, catcher; Sclaiser, outfielder; O'Connor, second base, and Lane, third base, are the veterans of last year's outfit that will again be eligible for duty.

The record in the 300-yard dash set up by Kinnally of Dorchester is one that is likely to stand for some years to come. He bettered the former record made by Hussey of Hyde Park by two-fifths of a second.

The present method of coaching used in high school track courses is an improvement over the former system if the many new records set up this past season is any criterion; i. e., recognition.

to equal the record of 26 2-5 seconds for the 50-yard dash, made by Elmer Smith of Commerce in 1912, was the goal of all 300-yard runners until the coming of Billy Nolan of East Boston High, who bettered the old mark by one-fifth of a second. Nolan's Record was shortly afterward broken by Eugene Hussey of Hyde Park High, who clipped one-fifth off New Kinnally of Dorchester lowers it again to 25 2-5.

If the coming generations of school athletes improve at the same rate, it is safe to predict that some coach will produce a lad that will cover the distance in 25 seconds flat. Frankie Burns, former B. A. A. track star while a member of the Exeter track squad, ran the 300 yards in 33 seconds flat, but runners like Burns are few and far between. That is the fastest time ever turned in by a schoolboy performer.

Skip Sherlock, coach of Commerce High's baseball team, reports having some good men striving for honors. Nolan, a pitcher, and Milliner, a catcher, look very good. Both are newcomers, but from the showing made this past week will have little trouble making the first team, according to "Skip."

Coach Beaton of Lynn English is jubilant over his chances of copping the flag in the North Shore race. He has eight veterans of last year's team returning in addition to the many new boys that are striving for

GARDINI IS READY FOR BOUT

Italian Grappler Expects to Make Short Work of Cyclone Burns

Cyclone Burns and Renato Gardini, two of the bitterest rivals the wrestling game has ever known, will step through the ropes in Mechanics building tomorrow night to settle once for all the long standing dispute as to which is the better wrestler of the pair. Incidentally, the fans who gather will have a chance to either say "I told you so," or, "Well, I'm satisfied with seeing the argument settled," according to their personal beliefs.

The match is one in which so many elements enter that makes the following of the sport guess harder than ever is what has stirred up the tremendous interest in the affair. This general interest, backed by the big personal followings of both men, and while the Gardini admirers figure that the Italian will walk through Burns, the followers of Burns declare that the veteran will give his younger opponent a fine series of lessons in high-grade wrestling. Some believe that Burns is too much of a veteran, but it is pointed out that the same thing holds true of Stanley Zbyszko and see what "Stan" did to Joe Stecher.

Thus the arguments are going on and where there are disagreements of this nature it indicates how widespread is the interest in the event.

Gardini Banks on Strength; Burns on Science

The match will bring together two men of directly opposite types. Gardini is a young and husky fellow, banking on his great strength to carry him through to success. He weighs 199 pounds and in this respect he is about the same as Burns. The latter counts heavily on his uncanny science and the wrestling instinct, that comes from long experience to more than offset the impetuous daring and aggressive style of the Italian.

In this connection it is interesting to note that Burns has never been beaten by a man of his own weight except Earl Caddock, Jim London, Evans Gerhardt and Elmer Johansen. Burns later defeated both Gerhardt and Johansen, and has never had return matches with either Caddock or the Greek wonder. At that his contest with London, taken on short notice, went over two hours before the Greek finally won.

Both Have Continually Given Weight Away

Burns has had to concede weight all his life in order to get matches, Gardini has been in the same boat. Both have had to wrestle out of their class, and have had to meet men like Stecher, Lewis and others of that grade of stars in order to keep busy.

In Wednesday night's match Gardini and Burns will face each other with but a few pounds' difference to offset the Italian's power. Both men are at their best form right now and both have trained to the minute.

Probably no match ever scheduled here has carried with it so much real hard feeling between the principals. Not only is there the keenest of professional rivalry, but personal feeling to settle. This means that both are likely to go the full limit of the rules and it was for this very reason that George Bothner, the world famous referee, has been agreed upon as the official.

The sale of seats indicates the big interest in the affair, but while the advance sale has been large, Mechanics Building has such a great seating capacity that there are plenty of first class seats to be had.

The fact that some unauthorized tickets had been discovered made a change in the arrangements for the handling of the advance sale, which will be confined to the office of George Dooley, at 242 Washington street. The telephone is Beach 4277, and in order to accommodate those who cannot get there during the day the office will be kept open at present it is planned to have a short preliminary before the main event, but also to keep extra men in reserve, and thus be ready for anything that might happen.

FIVE MARATHON ENTRIES RECEIVED TO D/TE

Tom Kanaly of the B. A. A has received two more entries for the Boston marathon of April 19, making five to date. They will begin coming along in bunches from this time on. Yesterday's entries were of Arthur L. Fletcher of M. I. T. and Arthur Dewar of the Methuen Y. M. C. A., both newcomers to the Ashland-to-Boston jog.

The others, already card-indexed, are George B Mora, Mohawk A. C.; C. Hutchinson, Foxcroft, Me., and Salvatore Maccarelli, Somerville.

Willie Ward and Carl Linder are putting in daily training licks at Quincy and several of the other New York pledders are all set, though their entries have yet to appear. Trivoulides, winner of last year's, will surely will start, as will Victor Kyronen and "Nick the Greek."

SEVENTY REPORT FOR DARTMOUTH FOOTBALL

Hanover, N. H., March 29.—Seventy candidates reported to Assistant Coach F. J. Dorrity for Spring football practice. The work is to begin as soon as the aster vacation is over.

Flanigan Won Bout

Through an error it was stated in our column that Stanley Tardi of the North End stopped Philip Flanigan of Malden in the first round of the 125-pound held under the auspices of the Riverton A. A. amateurs. Philip Flanigan put Stanley Tardi out in the first round and was awarded the bout by the judges.

CLINTON TAKES N.E. TITLE FROM FRUZETTI

Eddie Mack's Protege Wins on Points From Brockton Boxer; Donovan Scores Kayo

Johnny Clinton, formerly of New York, but now claiming the South End as his home, today sports the New England lightweight crown.

Overcoming his opponent's advantage of height and reach, he decisively defeated Jimmy Fruzetti of Brockton after ten torrid rounds before the members of the Carlin Club at the Grand Opera House last evening and his victory carried with it the lightweight title.

He piled up a big lead in seven of the ten rounds and the work of the Judges was easy. Despite the punishment he inflicted upon the Brockton boy, who was in pretty poor shape at the end of the fray, the decision was unpopular with the "wise ones" who had made the former champ a 10-7 favorite.

Fruzetti Scored a Few on Own Account

But the protege of Eddie Mack didn't escape unscathed. Fruzetti made his presence known at all times and showed the critics, who had dubbed him a cheese champion, that his victories over such men as Frankie Britt, Joe Tipitta and Benny Valger were no flukes.

Johnny Clinton, however, he met a man who, if last night's performance was any criterion, will make trouble for any lightweight in the country. As early as the fifth round the New Yorker had piled up a lead large enough to insure victory unless he became careless and walked into a stiff left, which Fruzetti tried to land throughout but to no avail.

It is likely that the men will be rematched, but unless something was radically wrong with both men last night, Fruzetti doesn't stand a chance.

Two eight-round semi-finals and two six-round preliminaries, all crowded with action, completed the bill, which filled the large audience with delight.

McCARTHY KEEPS 24 ON B. C. BASEBALL SQUAD

Coach Tom McCarthy has retained twenty-four players on the Boston College baseball squad. Nine are pitchers, all of whom are going well for early-season work. Capt. Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Harry Mullowney, Jimmy Kelley, Ben Roderick, Steve Patten, Johnny Durgan, former Concord High twirler, Tommy Murphy, Bob Lashaway and Henry Vargas.

BRAVES PLAYERS GAIN PEP AS TEMPERATURE DROPS

By NICK FLATLEY.

Galveston, Tex., March 29.—A touch of Northern climate has invaded this northern most corner and the cool breezes have brought back all the pep that a couple of weeks of extra hard work took out of the Brave athletes. We're getting a real idea of what regular early Spring temperature does to a lot of ball players who have forced themselves toward gauntness under the Southern sun.

There wasn't the slightest complaint when Manager Mitchell ordered a brisk two-hour seance today. The vacation Sunday had given the performers all the rest they needed, and they didn't care in the least how long school kept.

Whatever else happens it's a pipe that the Braves will go North in fine physical shape. They may not be champions in ability, but they'll surely have all the possible kick when the campaign starts a couple of weeks hence.

This stop in the bush league belt has turned up two regular big league probabilities and quite a few possibilities. Al Nixon, centre fielder, and Johnny Cooney, southpaw pitcher, are a couple of birds who can hardly help gaining glory in the Brave regalia this Summer. Al has blasted his way into a regular outfield berth, through a horde of candidates all with big league experience.

Cooney Almost Sure of Regular Berth

Young Mister Cooney, a slight, reserved kid, who hardly looks his nineteen years, has almost been voted a regular member of the pitching staff. Thus far he has tossed ten innings in actual competition down here and not a run has been scored against him.

He's the smoothest worker imaginable, putting the ball over without any apparent effort—one of the chaps who is just as strong at the end of nine tough innings as he was at the start. He should be heavier, one would think, but when he has enough stuff to make the other fellows miss the ball, the lack of weight is hardly an important factor.

Michael O'Neil, who has been catching the baby tossser, is one of his greatest boosters. Michael knows a pitcher when he sees one, and in his very aggressive opinion, J. Cooney is the best looking youngster who ever stepped into a box.

Youngster's Merits as Mickey Sees 'Em

Here's how Mickey has it figured out.

"Johnny right now can pitch as well as most of the left handers in the league. He may be young and lack experience, but he knows baseball naturally and can field his position as good as the best of them. A lot of pitchers may have more speed, but any bird who can put the ball where he wants to is a good pitcher.

"That's the secret of pitching and Cooney surely has it. No matter what I call for back there he comes through. He can toss them high inside or low outside, or anywhere else. He can hit the glove no matter where you hold it, in the pinches just as well as in practice."

"He has a lot of stuff on his fast one, too. His motion is so easy that the ball is right on top of you before you expect it. And then it's too late to take a real swing. He has a good curve and a slow one, too. Don't let anybody tell you he can't go in and pitch in the National League. I'm saying he can."

Helped to Win Two Games for Scrubs

He hits fairly well, too, and has bumped into the picture by breaking up a couple of the games that the scrubs played against the Texas League outfits. From where we look at things, the young man has just about played himself into the position of first substitute infielder, despite the fact that Christ-ohary and Lacey have been exhibiting good baseball.

Hawk shares with Ira Townsend the glory of being in the lead of the probability league. A couple of other young pitchers are knocking at the door, and will have their chance to come through when the regulars and the Yannigans tackle each other next week.

The regulars play Galveston tomorrow afternoon, while the substitutes will have to get in their exercise in the morning. All players have been warned to go a bit easy while the cool winds flit about the ball yard.

Richard Rudolph has deserted the individual who was streching his spine, and generally twisting him up, and has now put his right arm in the care of a local chiropractic.

Britt Beats Morgan

New Bedford, March 28.—Frankie (Young) Britt of this city scored a technical knockout over Eddie Morgan, featherweight champion of England, when the latter's seconds threw the towel into the ring as a token of defeat in the second round.

BIG FIGHT GETS MANY GOOD OFFERS

Rickard Swamped With Bids of $500,000 to $800,000 for Carpentier-Dempsey Scrap

New York, March 29.—An eleventh-hour deluge of offers for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight today resulted in further delay in the naming of the site.

Tex Rickard is in a quandary. He has until April Fools' Day to muter the information the fistic public is so eager to hear, and he may wait until the last moment.

Two conferences today were scheduled to consume the major portion of the promoter's time.

John W. Snyder of Cumberland, Md., with a delegation of prominent citizens from his home town, was booked for another conference with the Texan. Snyder conferred with Rickard for a brief spell yesterday, but failed to induce him to name the Maryland town.

Aiter C. Percival, who says he represents a syndicate headed by Solly Joel, London diamond merchant, which has offered $500,000 for the match, was also scheduled to whisper in Rickard's ear.

Meanwhile the peer of promoters scanned telegrams cbbering this and that and read again a belated offer of $800,000 from Dr. W. E. Harrison, who declared that Broken Hill, New, will take over the fight and guarantee that amount. The unheard-of towns are getting into print as they always do.

"Honestly, I haven't made a final decision yet," said Rickard today. "As I've said repeatedly, I am giving every angle and every offer closest attention and I won't make a final decision until I am certain that I have chosen the best site possible."

Rickard took occasion to deny a report printed here Monday to the effect that Jersey City would get the match. He said there was absolutely nothing to it.

ARRANGE DATES FOR SCHOOL MEETS

Greater Boston Coaches Get Busy on Program for Outdoor Track Season

At the latest meeting of the Boston high school coaches, arrangements were made for the annual outdoor championship meets for the district high schools and the combined high schools.

The relay races and field events for both meets will take place May 22, and the trials and finals of the running events in the district meet will be held May 26. The championships for all the schools will be held June 1, when both trials and finals will be held.

Inasmuch as these games do not hold such heavy entry lists as the indoor district and regimental meets, trials and finals will be held on the same day. Only the dashes, intermediate 220 and junior 110 will require trial heats.

The championships will be held at Tech Field, as they have been during the last few years.

Arrangements whereby the schools may obtain the Walpole street grounds for the baseball season are still pending. Providing these grounds cannot be secured the nines will play on the back lots as usual.

THIRTY OUT FOR TECH FRESHMAN BASEBALL

Thirty candidates are practicing every day on the Tech diamond in attempting to make the freshman baseball nine. The yearlings have been given batting and fielding practice and thus far the battery eliminations have been narrowed down to R. S. Sheddon, W. H. Kenneth, G. C. Canfield and F. W. Lyons. Special efforts are being made to put the freshmen in good condition for the first game which is slated for April 16 with Dean Academy.

Jack Johnson Names McClain Manager

Leavenworth, Kan., March 29.—Jack Johnson will return to the boxing game under a manager of his own race, the former champion declared here today.

Jack denied he had any intention of signing a managerial contract with Al Lippe of New York. Johnson said his ring future would be directed by Billy McClain of Kansas City, who once promoted bouts for Georges Carpentier in France.

The former champion will terminate his sentence on July 15 and will immediately attempt to re-enter the ring, he said. His plans include a traveling carnival, with personal appearances in the event boxing commissions refuse to allow him to appear in the ring.

THREE CHANGES IN HARVARD '24 CREW

Three more changes have been made in the first Harvard freshmen crew, in all cases new men displacing the old. Hoover, who has been stroking the regulars, gave way to Amory of the second night. Jameson displaced Bradford at two, and Burnham, coxswain, was replaced by Carson.

Both first and second crews had a spirited brush yesterday with honors nearly even. The first crew is rowing in this order: Bow, C. H. Hollister; 2, J. D. Jameson; 3, R. McK. Henry; 4, R. S. Hubbard; 5, C. J. Hubbard; 6, Parker Hamilton; 7, A. L. Robson; stroke, Walter Amory; coxswain, E. N. Carson.

Norwood Nine Busy

Norwood High School nine held its first practice at the Norwood Civic Association grounds today. About forty candidates reported and from all outward signs have promises of being a hustling bunch. Thomas Worsel is captaining the team. There are a few open dates on the schedule that Manager James Flaherty is anxious to fill and hopes to hear from some fast high school team of Massachusetts.

An Absorbing Romance By Ruby M. Ayres

Dramatic Serial of Cross-Purposes, Jealousy and Social Intrigue

"EVA—Eva!" It was Peter's voice now. With a great effort she forced herself to move. She unlocked the door, but barred the way so that he could not come in or see what she had done.

"I am quite ready," she said, and her voice was so quiet and expressionless that the boy stared at her with sharp inquiry. Then suddenly he caught her round the waist, looking hard into her face.

"Eva!" he said breathlessly. "Good God! what has happened?"

"Oh, Peter—Peter!" For a moment she clung to him in any agony of pain; then suddenly she flung up her head with a little gesture of pride. She rubbed her white cheeks fiercely with her hands to bring some color into them.

"Don't say anything. Just—leave me—alone," she said gaspingly. He fell back at once. His did not understand in the least what was the matter, but he felt instinctively that something terrible had happened.

Just for a moment Eva stood clutching at the balusters, then she drew a long breath, and went on slowly down the stairs to the crowded hall below.

Philip saw her coming. He gave one quick glance at her and turned away. He was horribly afraid that someone would guess how his heart was thumping with happiness—horribly afraid that he showed it to his face.

He walked to the door, only to be met by a volley of rice and confetti. He had always thought he would hate this part of a wedding, but he found himself laughing and enjoying it.

The car shot forward and Calligan dropped behind.

Philip closed the window. He stood up, laughing and flushed, trying to rid himself of the shower of confetti that stuck in his hair and all over his shoulders.

As yet he had not looked at Eva—his heart was hammering up somewhere in the region of his throat. In another moment he would have told her how much he loved her—in another moment . . . half a moment . . . he found himself counting the seconds with boyish bashfulness; then suddenly he turned to her . . .

"Darling . . ." he said, shakily.

She was sitting up very erect and still, her hands clasped in her lap, but when he spoke her name she turned her white face to him and looked at him with eyes that seemed to burn with living flame.

"There's no need to pretend any longer," she said, hoarsely.

Philip's heart gave a great throb of fear and for a moment seemed to stand still.

"There's nothing to forgive," she said coldly. "You are no more to blame than I am. You wanted money, and I"—she drew a long breath—"I suppose I thought it would be a fine thing to marry into a family so honorable and blue-blooded. We're both got what we wanted—and so we're quits; but to pretend that you love me—"

At Highway House.

Philip covered his face with his hands. Had she really known all the time? Had she really been playing a double game, even as he had? If so, his burden of shame and remorse would be doubly hard to bear.

"I only cared as you did for the things I wanted and thought I should get . . . to live at the Highway House . . . and to marry a Winterdick . . ." She broke off with a little sobbing laugh. "Aren't you proud that I was willing to go through so much to get you? Aren't you proud that we thought you were worth so much . . . If you admit that father paid you to marry me, you need not forget that I had to buy you for a husband . . ."

Philip was staring at her with a curiously-awakened expression in his eyes; suddenly he began to laugh—inane, mirthless laughter.

"So you're all the same, you women," he said dully. "I could have staked my life on it that you were different. A thousand times I've hated myself because I thought I wasn't good enough for you, a thousand times I've felt that I ought to go on my knees to you and ask you to forgive me for the rotten game I knew I was playing!"

His laughed again, helplessly. "I might have saved myself the remorse—I might have known that you weren't the honest . . ." He broke off. He brought his clenched fist down on his knees in a passionate revolt.

"I'll not believe it," he said loudly, and clasped her in his arms.

She did not answer; she could not force her white lips to speak; and he went on:

"That night when I met you on the road—you'd been wishing to the moon . . . I've hoped since—I've thought that perhaps you . . . I . . . it might have been something to do with me. If it was—Eva, you must have cared a little—ever so little perhaps—but still you must have cared."

She could feel his quick breath on her face——"Answer me . . . answer me . . . There is someone else . . . Someone you prefer to me?"

"Yes." Afterwards she was sure it was never she who said it—that someone else spoke the word for her; and with that lie a great tiredness seemed to fall on the whole world. her head tumbled weakly against her husband's shoulder and she fainted quietly away.

When she opened her eyes again her hat was off and she was lying back on the seat, the breeze from the open window fanning her face.

She struggled into a sitting position and Philip, who had been bending over her, straightened himself and moved away.

When Poverty Comes In at the Door

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1921, by International Feature Service, Inc.

IT didn't seem, did it, in the happy days of wooing, that such ordinary things as bills could ever disturb the smooth harmony of love. Alas, but they do—they are worse than the most terrible nightmares, and they always precede the gaunt spectre that comes snooping around when here's no money in the till and no food in the pantry. When poverty comes in at the door—you can see him there in the shape of the terrible wolf he is—love flies out of the window.

And the young husband sits there not knowing which way to turn and the bride—oh, she's in a quandary, too—and he's wondering if, perhaps, she'd been a little more careful and he'd been a little more careful and they hadn't indulged in quite so many luxuries, the wolf would have dared to come sniffing, and if Dan wouldn't have been content to stay. Love in a cottage is a wonderful thing, but a cottage pocketbook won't support the menage of a palace.

BOSTON COOK AMERICAN BOOK

"Lincoln Pie"

One pint stewed apples sifted, butter size of an egg, 2 tablespoons flour, juice and rind of 1 lemon and yolks of 3 well-beaten eggs. Sweeten to taste. Bake with bottom crust and when done frost with well-beaten whites of 3 eggs and 3 tablespoons sugar. Brown in oven.

Pork Cake

Take fat salt pork entirely free of lean or rind (about 1 pound), chop so fine that it will be almost like lard, pour ½ pint boiling water upon it. One pound of raisins seeded and chopped, ¼ pound citron shaved in shreds, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon saleratus rubbed fine and put into molasses. Mix these all together and stir in flour to make the consistency of common cake mixture, then stir in nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves, 1 ounce of each. It should be baked slowly and will keep moist for months.

MRS. HATTIE MORSE, No. 18 Rogers Street, Dover, N. H.

One dollar will be paid for each recipe printed. Cut them out from day to day and you will have a really correct cook book.

What Baby Said

One dollar will be paid for each letter printed.

A few days ago my little girl was talking, when all of a sudden she said: "Mamma, the world will be destroyed by fire some time, won't it?" I answered, "Yes, dear." She waited a few minutes, then said: "Mamma, were you here when they had the flood?"

The Second Generation

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER LXXI.

Copyright, 1921, Star Company.

"AS I was saying," Irene Lawrence continued, "your trouble made my brother pity you tremendously. You know," with a significant smile, "he is very soft-hearted and sentimental. We had moved out into the country. He was in town alone, away from our influence. He saw you; he was sorry for you; he asked you to marry him. And you accepted him.

"There! I have been candid! I may have surprised you by my blunt speech. I do not believe in subterfuge. And I would do much to save my brother from a grave mistake."

There was a tense silence. Mary was gazing past her companion, out of the window. She saw that which her companion could not see. She was in imagination seeing Mortimer Lawrence's face as she had seen it many times—before the disaster that had changed her circumstances — before she was an object of pity to any one.

And always in those dark eyes there had been an expression that told her this man loved her—an expression that others could not read, but that she had read even while she had pretended to her silly self that she did not recognize it. Then she saw Mortimer as he had appear when he confessed his affection for her. And her soul rose in revolt against the story this girl had just told her.

"Well," Irene demanded impatiently, "what about it?"

Mary started from the reverie that had made her almost unconscious of her surroundings.

"About what?" she stammered.

"What about this business of your engagement to my brother? You will certainly not hold him to it?"

Mary shook her head. "Certainly not, if he wishes to be released."

Irene frowned. "Don't dodge the question, Mary. You know that Mortimer is no quitter—that he would never ask to be released."

"Yes; I know that, of course," was the quiet rejoinder.

A Look of Anger

A look of anger crept into Irene Lawrence's steel-gray eyes. She had expected protests, perhaps recriminations, and had been ready for them. She had not been prepared for this calm dignity, this perfect poise.

"Mary, you force me to say what I would rather leave unsaid—things that may hurt."

"You have already said things that would hurt me if they were true," Mary rejoined.

She was very pale, and her hands were clasped tightly in her lap. But her father's fighting spirit was here, and she would not yield an inch of ground.

"You mean that they are false?"

"I mean that some of them are false."

"I suppose," Irene sneered, "you refer to what Lewis Sheldon said."

"I do not refer to that. I do not know what he said that night at Newport. And I care still less. He may have been drunk."

"Yet you accepted his attentions."

"That was my affair."

Irene gripped the tablecloth with nervous fingers.

"It certainly was your affair—and not that of any of the rest of us! But you have chosen to allow my brother to get himself tangled up"—

"Be careful!" Mary warned.

"I am only saying what is true. You allow my brother, through a mistaken sense of chivalry, to ask you to marry him—and you accept him! That is true, anyway—is it not?"

"It certainly is true that your brother asked me to marry him and that I accepted him."

"And you intend to marry him?"

Mary pushed her chair back from the table and rose.

"That," she said, her voice vibrating with feeling, "is a matter between the man to whom I am engaged and myself."

"Wait!" Irene exclaimed. "Sit down!"

After an instant's hesitation Mary obeyed.

One More Insult

"I have just one thing more to tell you," Irene hurried on. "It is this. You are ruining my brother's life. You are separating him from his family.

"Not that we need his support. Thank goodness, we are not dependent upon him nor upon anything he can make as a shoe clerk with your brother!

"But we have our good name to regard—and he will disgrace it if he marries the daughter of a man who ran away from his obligations, the sister of a man whose boon companions are chorus girls and their kind"——

"Stop!" Mary had sprung to her feet again, and stood above her companion, her eyes flashing. "You have had your say, and now I intend to have mine!

"My father made his money honestly, and we, his children, squandered it. Every debt he owed in the world has been paid—which is more than can be said of many other men whose business has gone to pieces. So much for that! As to my brother, he does know one chorus girl—a girl who has made her money honestly, and who is finer than any of the girls in the set I once tried to enter.

"I am going now. I am sorry I came here to meet you today. It was a mistake. Good morning!"

And before her astonished listener could catch her breath Mary Throckmorten was gone.

Stingiest Person

One dollar will be paid for each letter printed.

The stingiest person I think I ever knew was my own father-in-law. I used to spend two weeks' vacation at his home each Summer. His wife not being well on one occasion of my visit, I used to get up early and prepare breakfast. Each morning I would find two matches on the kitchen table that he would take out for me to use. The rest he would lock up. Absolutely the truth. Can you "match" it? A. T.

SHE remembered morning at them all and sensing the futility of it.

She remembered, still later, being alone with Miss Russell and storming at her. One thought obsessed her now, she must not leave all her father's papers, even in the safe. Those men were strong, determined, ruthless. At least she could take the strong box. He had brought it back. She made Miss Russell carry her in there—the one small concession made to her that difficult night. She remembered —a vivid bit among the confusions that assailed her—having trouble with the combination of the safe. Apparently she had stormed at that, too. She remembered having Miss Russell put the box in a trunk, and tying the key around her neck. It seemed a tie that still bound her to Henry, that kept lying cold against her skin, a reminder of what he had seemed to be, at least of what she had thought him. Perhaps they might yet work it out, somehow.

Though she promised Esther, at last, that she would wait a few months, give herself a reasonable chance to think. Esther had said that she couldn't do less. And they had utterly beaten her down.

Esther herself slept that night on the second floor. It seemed wise not to let herself slacken in this great responsibility. She was doing her duty. She was going through with it, relentlessly. For Esther, too, had much of Jim Cantey in her, and a humorless touch of iron from the Puritans back of her mother. Jim Cantey's forebears had been other stock, from the South. His grandfather had come over the Blue Ridge into the wilderness nearly a century earlier.

Came Before Eight

Will was right about Calverly. He came before eight. Naturally they didn't tell Miriam.

His proved somewhat difficult to handle. For a few moments he quite insisted on going up to the study. He said he had work to do there.

Will found him rather interesting. He was, when all was said and done, one of those literary chaps, but apart from that didn't make such a bad impression. He was obviously down on his luck, but it would be a bit like him not to mind that; even to find it romantically pleasing. It wasn't hard to see how he had captured the heart of a lonely, imaginative girl, walking in on her unexpectedly like that. After insisting for a little while, he evidently made up his mind to yield. Will took it that he didn't want to risk saying too much. Which might have influenced either a decent desire to let Miriam do her own telling, or, on the other hand, the moral obliquity of the fellow. Finally he went away. There was an element of excitement in standing there, talking with him and blocking off the doorway. He had been, after all, a really conspicuous figure. Everybody had htard of him. Why, they—Esther and himself—had belonged to a reading-circle, some years back, where "Satraps of the Simple" was discussed as a masterpiece! Phrases from that one great book had crept into his own speech. All that, of course, was when the young fellow was on the crest of his wave, before people found out what he really was. Even at that, Will was a little awed. For the fellow was, after all, Henry Calverly. The more impossible, the more dangerous, of course, for that fact; but none the less Henry Calverly!

Want of Money

He had never before in his life felt the want of money as he felt it now. Hitherto money had seemed desirable only as it was needed to meet casual expenses, only, really, because people pressed for it. But now he desired the freedom of action that it brings, the power to do. He wanted to lavish gifts on her; and to plan for her without considering the wealth that depressed him so whenever he permitted himself to think of it. That was why they surrounded her so, of course. Nobody bothered much about poor girls. Mary Maloney came to mind . . . He thought rather wildly of storming the embattled hills of wealth, cutting out a place for himself, and going then to Miriam. It would be simple enough then. That was the bitter irony of life.

He could write to her. In some way the fire within him had to blaze out. He had to find expression.

He turned back to the boarding-house. It stood on a pleasant quiet street. The maples arched over the pavement. The houses were set back on green lawns. Here and there were masses of flowering shrubs. A few of the older places still had their fences, of pickets, or iron piping, or sanded timbers. Girls in white sat on front porches or lounged in hammocks. There was the intermittent chatter of fresh young voices.

A slim youth of eighteen or twenty, in clean white flannels came by, lugging a canvas gutter case. Only seven or eight years back, in Sunbury, Henry Calverly might have been seen, at just this time of a June evening, when the first dusk came down, going, with a guitar, to the house of this or that girl. And it would have been on just such a street as this, with lawns, and shrubs, and arching maples, and girls on porches. It was a poignant memory.

The usual Summer evening groups were out on the porch. He had barely met these people. He had caught none of the names. There were several elderly women, a few colorless couples in later middle life, one very young and very audacious couple with a baby that cried a good deal, some maiden ladies, and an assortment of young people, most of whom seemed to work in the business district. They all made a point of bowing to him.

Another group—all men and all strangers—were sitting now on the steps; five of six of them. They wore their hats at odd angles, and their pockets bulged with papers. A wide belt of what appeared to be cigarette stubs lay across the front walk near the bottom step. The youngest, a youth with blond curls and a curiously seamed face, was violently chewing gum. He had a hastily familiar look. Calverly had known him or seen him somewhere. Could it have been in the News office?

His step faltered. The whole group was hastily familiar now—not the individuals, but the kind. They were like other groups of casually cruel, pitilessly persistent young men in the black past. He found himself unnerved. He nearly stood still; had to drive himself forward. The porch above seemed suddenly dark with gloom.

The gum chewer got up, languidly. "Howd'do, Mr. Calverly," he said. "I don't know's you remember me, but I saw you some up in the old Ace. Name of Hadley. This is Mr. Watson, of the Globe, and Mr.—"

The offhand introductions went on. Calverly stood looking guardedly from one to another. Something had happened, and he didn't know what. He couldn't make up his mind whether or not to answer to the name. And what did they mean by using it so baldly? To trap him, perhaps. . . . He simply stood there, looking.

"Perhaps you haven't heard the news, Mr. Calverly?"

It was the one called Hadley. Calverly bent a blank face on him.

"Mrs. Watt died this afternoon. Just too late for the afternoon papers."

The phrase, "Mrs. Watt," had a curiously incongruous sound. They had invariably spoken of her, back in Sunbury, as "Madame."

The voice was going on. And the others were putting in questions.

Being Dragged

Mere intensity than at any other time during the past twenty-four hours he had the feeling of being dragged along. In his mind he couldn't keep up. He knew, of course, on the surface of his mind, that of all the blows that had laid Madame Watt low on him, this, it would certainly appear later on, was the hardest. Still, he couldn't feel it, grasp it, believe it. It might almost have been falling on somebody else.

What are you going to do with the news?" asked the next and cynical, young man, after a scrutiny that took in his hat, clothes, shoes.

He managed to reply with a "What money?"—hopelessly trying to gain a little time in which to think the situation out and shape a course. But all he could think, with the little time gained, was that he had had to throw one of his shoe strings that morning. He wished the man would stop looking at it. He knew well enough that he looked seedy.

"She left it all to you, you know. About two millions."

Calverly could only throw out a hand in ineffectual protest.

"Are you going out there?" asked another.

Calverly shook his head. He collected himself now enough to frame a negative attitude.

"I can't talk to you," he said. Not even bond your experiences living under the other name?"

This was a sharp shot, from one who hadn't spoken before. Calverly turned a troubled gaze on him, but made no reply.

A New Fashion

And Other Things

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

We have our little fashions in ladies' skirts, in pointed shoes, in automobiles and in surgical operations. The fashionable operation USED to be blood letting. Many a man was bled into his grave by well-meaning doctors. More recently the fashion was an operation removing the vermiform appendix.

NOW the fashion is removing tonsils, and in New York a special hospital has been established to do nothing but remove tonsils and adenoids.

Interesting is the fact that we do not know why tonsils exist or what they do. But they are not there for nothing, and some day tonsilotomy will be replaced by better methods. It may be the best thing now.

A "church for animals" is started in New York city. The idea is to preach the truth that all animals are entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. It is a good idea "to champion the cause of animals' rights." But if "all life and consciousness are the same," real kindness to animals would do away with them all, that their consciousness might return here in human bodies only; no inferior bodies would be available if all the lower forms were killed off.

The Turkish Nationalists boast they have beaten the Greeks in a battle where Greeks outnumbered them. This does not sound cheerful for the Greek King, brother-in-law of the American lady, formerly Mrs. Leeds. These days a King is expected to WIN fights or get out, just as a drummer is expected to SELL goods or resign. The days are gone when a King could blame his defeat on his generals or his people, and build monuments to himself in memory of his victories.

On Good Friday the stock exchanges close and financial writers talk of what happened the day before. You read in the special cable from London "the mark and the franc both went down." The mark went down because there was threatened revolution in Germany. And the franc went down because it is bound to go down when the mark goes down.

If that were more generally understood by those interested in francs and in French prosperity, there would be less striving to drive Germany into anarchy and revolution, which would mean driving francs down to half a cent apiece.

Facts About the Railroads

Now that we face another railway crisis, certain facts need to be kept in view.

The claim has been persistently made in railway propaganda that when the government took over the railroads at the end of 1917 it found them in good condition and turned them back, March 1, 1920, in a wretched condition.

This, of course, is not true. Under private ownership the railways, in 1917, expended for maintenance and equipment $690,487,606. In the last full year of government operation, 1919, the expenditure was $1,215,275,748, an increase of 74 per cent.

For maintenance of way and structures the private owners in 1917 expended $445,301,852; in 1919 the government expended $772,513,676, an increase of 73 per cent.

The railroad transportation system broke down under the strain of war. It is conceded, by experts, that the government had to take them over to get goods moved. They were in better condition, in many respects, when they were returned to private ownership, but were not as good as they will have to be.

In 1917 their gross income was $4,000,000,000; it is now $7,000,000,000. Three years' collections by the railroads would buy their entire plant at the highest possible valuation.

During the twenty-six months of government operation there was a deficit of $715,000,000, or less than $1,000,000 a day. In the first six months of restored private ownership the deficit was $631,500,000, or more than $3,000,000 per day. This does not speak well for private ownership.

This great deficit occurred before the recent general slump in traffic, due in part to high rates. It coincided with the period during which the government generously continued its high wartime guarantee of return on railway investments.

Now the private owners foresee greater deficits and are again asking for help. They want to cut wages. They would like to get new subsidies. Some of them are even willing to let the government pay all their expenses, give them a fixed return and foot the deficit out of taxes.

Since the people, in any event, must "pay the freight," why not adopt a short cut to the inevitable—government ownership, with the public getting the benefits?

Harris' Appointment

In spite of the presence of the names of some of the lawyers on the list of indorsers of Robert O. Harris for United States District Attorneyship for the District of Massachusetts which Senator Lodge has just made public, we think that the appointment of Mr. Harris would be a good appointment. His capacity and experience is undoubted. On the bench he was a liberal judge, well liked by those who practiced before him.

Since he resigned from the bench, there have been criticisms of him which may or may not have been fair. At any rate, a man ought to be judged in predicting his work in an official position by the way he performed his duties in another and similar official position. The mental attitude of a great many men is entirely changed when they take the oath of office. That is as it should be.

More Truth Than Poetry

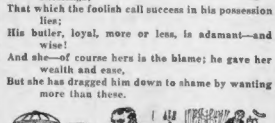
Inconsiderate Woman

By S. E. KISER

JOY sits no more by Hawksley's door; the butler's face is hard;
Reporters—nearly half a score—are parking in the yard.
Ten years ago—no, less than ten—the sweet romance began.
Ah, how we envied Hawksley then! He seemed a lucky man.
For she was fairest of the fair—a trite remark, but true—
And he a healthy millionaire whose cares were small and few.

SHE still has charm and still is young, which makes the morsel sweet
That Gossip rolls upon her tongue—a rare, delicious treat!
His waist, ten years ago so slim, has thickened, as waists will,
But Time has not been hard with him; he's fairly agile still;
His millions have been multiplied—oh, he has seen to that—
But there are punctures in his pride—it's gone completely flat!

WITH studied care his clerks pretend to think of other things;
His rival and his passing friend conceal their titterings;
That which the foolish call success in his possession lies;
His butler, loyal, more or less, is adamant—and wise!
And she—of course hers is the blame; he gave her wealth and ease,
But she has dragged him down to shame by wanting more than these.



JUDGMENT

It may not be fair to judge a man by his clothes, but how can you make a mistake about a man who picks out a red automobile?

Letters to the Editor

Not Fair to Russia

Editor Boston American:

The super loftiness of this government in deciding to decline business relationship with Russia is inconsistent with the recognized principle of self-determination. The ground taken of non-exacting of contracts and failure to protect life and property is not fair to the Russian people after centuries of the worst despotism on earth. Why, what do we expect—a perfect angel of a republic there? We have not ourselves attained that after 140 years of self-government.

How would we like the Russian government to point out the outrages going on in the South since the Civil War? The last outrage of burning the negro Lowry is too horrible to even read a thousand miles away. How about the thousands of cancellations of orders in this country the last two years, are not these even worse where our people have had no war and famine in their midst?

No, I don't think we would like to have Russia point out the inconsistencies of our position. We would tell her to mind her own business. Our local affairs and our government are products of self-determination of 1776 revolution.

AMERICAN-BORN CITIZEN.

Why?

Pet Peeves of Patient People

What got your goat today? You'll feel better if you tell the Pet Peeve Editor of the Boston American about it.

WHY is it that after a liquor raid the whiskey goes to the police station and is never heard of again? PRETTY SOFT.

WHY do they say a man is foolish to get married and then say two can live as cheaply as one? H. C. L.

WHY does a fellow take his girl to a one-arm lunch after the theatre and tire her to death with the "not-used-to" gag? JOE TAKE-WITHOUT-ASKING.

"WHY" also appears every Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By K. C. B.

"THE postal establishment is not an institution for profit or politics; it is an institution for service. • • • Every effort shall be made to humanize the industry. Labor is not a commodity. That idea was abandoned 1,921 years ago. • • • There are 300,000 employes. • • • fairly treated and properly appreciated, all partners with us here in this great enterprise, we can do the job."—Postmaster-General Will H. Hays to the employes of his department.

IF YOU know Will Hays,
AND YOU'VE seen him work,
AND HAVE shaken his hand,
AND LOOKED right at him,
AND TALKED with him,
THEN YOU will know
THAT WHAT he's said,
IN THE lines above,
AREN'T IDLE words,
AND YOU will know
HE MEANS them all,
AND BECAUSE of this,
I'VE PICKED them out
FROM THE daily grist,
AND PUT them here,
JUST FOR myself,
AND SELFISHLY,
TO PLEASE myself,
AND MY excuse,
IS THAT I'm glad,
MY FRIEND Hays,
HAS STARTED out,
JUST AS I knew,
HE WOULD start out,
BY SENDING word,
TO ALL of those,
WHO'LL WORK with him,
THAT EACH of them,
IS AS important,
IN THE task,
HE HAS to do,
AS IS himself,
AND I'LL just add,
TO FILL my space,
THE TROUBLE is,
WITH SOME great men,
THAT THEY can't see,
BEYOND THE figure,
OF THEMSELVES, AND THEREFORE,
THEY CAN never see,
POTENTIAL GREATNESS,
IN AN office boy.

I THANK you.

GIRLS GET WORST OF THINGS IN LIFE

By Damon Runyon

I HAVE often heard girls say they wish they had been born boys, because boys have a much easier time in the world than girls.

This is quite true.

Almost every arrangement of life is unfair to the girl.

Adventure is denied her. A boy can cut loose at an early age and go roaming over the globe, viewing strange sights, and enjoying new experiences.

A girl must remain at home traveling the same old quiet, humdrum streets day in and day out, seeing the same old faces and hearing the same old voices.

Twice the Spirit

She may be born with twice the spirit of her brother. She may have twice his initiative and daring. But she must stay behind, her spirit smothering under the musty sameness of existence, while he fares forth into the great outside.

If a girl does courageously attempt a little adventure she is regarded as mannish and peculiar and not entirely all that she should be. In many communities about the only thing a girl can do to win the approbation of all hands is to go through the old pizzarosis of a neat little wedding with some local dumbbell.

A boy, broke, and in a strange town, is only at a momentary disadvantage. As a young fellow, fooling around the country, I have frequently dropped off brakebeams from under box cars in some unfamiliar city, ragged and dirty and hungry, and been not inhospitably received. All I had to combat was my temporary poverty.

Men to Fight

A girl, homeless and penniless, in a strange place, would have to fight hordes of masculine buzzards, would be an object of great suspicion, and would finally wind up surrounded by representatives of Societies for the Prevention of Wandering Gals, who would ask her numerous questions.

Since custom and convention expect so much of girls, and since life has apportioned itself to them so fairly in other ways, I hold that things should be so arranged that all girls would be brought up in comfort and luxury, should have all the things the feminine heart desires, clothes, motor cars and no work unless they wish to work.

If I were conducting the affairs of this universe, I would set aside a great fund, raised through taxation of men, for this purpose. And if you don't think I would have a beautiful world, ask the women.

HOW TO FIND LATITUDE BY NORTH STAR

By Garrett P. Serviss

A MAN in Kenosha, Wis., quotes a statement by one of the navy airmen who were lost in Canada to the effect that they first learned how far north they were by noticing the great height of the North Star, and that then they began "checking with their arms" to find their latitude, which they made out as between 55 and 60 degrees north. He thinks it would be of interest to know how they determined their latitude by "checking with their arms."

I do not know whether such a method, under that name, is taught in the navy or no, or if so, precisely how it is practised, but it is easy to see how it can be done. Since the North Star is almost directly over the North Pole of the earth, its apparent height above the northern horizon must be equal to the observer's latitude —i. e., his angular distance north of the equator.

On Clear Night

From this it follows that on any clear night one can tell his latitude very closely if he can measure the angular height of the North Star. Between the horizon and the zenith there are 90 degrees. (In a mountainous country allowance must be made for elevation of the sky line above a true level.)

If the star appears one-third of the way from the horizon to the zenith the latitude is 30 degrees; if it appears half-way to the zenith the latitude is 45 degrees; if it appears one-quarter of the way the latitude is 22½ degrees, and if three-quarters of the way, 67½ degrees, and so on.

What is needed is practice in estimating angles, and in acquiring this the arms may be used for "checking." The arm pointing at the star guides and aids the eye in determining the angle of elevation.

Close Estimate

If one observer extends one arm horizontally and the other arm toward the star a second observer standing at one side should be able to make a fairly close estimate of the angle formed by the two arms of his companion.

A lone observer might perhaps do better by using the first and second fingers of his right hand. Close the third and fourth fingers, let the second finger, traced by the thumb, be pointed to the horizon, while the first is directed toward the star. Then the angle between the second and first fingers will equal the latitude.

Owing to the hardships of their situation the uncertainty of so crude a method was increased for the airmen, so they did not succeed in locating their latitude very closely. The report says they made it between 55 and 60 degrees. As a matter of fact, the latitude of Moose Factory is only about 51 degrees. A mistake of four degrees would throw them not less than 275 miles out of the way.

SNOBBISHNESS AND GOOD BREEDING

Teaching your child to be snobbish is tying a lodestone of unhappiness to its neck.

The snobbish child learns to select friends from those whose parents are well to do or who appear to be well off.

To the snobbish child clothes are the prime requisite of friendship.

There is no attempt to discern good qualities beneath a plain gown or a modest home.

Outward show and position are the standards used to measure in the selection of associates.

And so the snobby little "thinks-she-is-somebody" misses a certain freedom in associates which robs her of opportunities of friendship with those in humble circumstances, where unalloyed purity and beautiful character are the sought-for goal.

The snobbish young girl misses many good times as a young girl.

In the days when there should be full enjoyment of all that is good and helpful and healthful she shrinks within herself, turns up her nose and begs to be excused.

Snobbishness is not an indication of good breeding.

The really well bred are plain and simple and kindly toward all.

Stars and Stripes

A guilty conscience serves a life sentence.

He who will not help a friend in need will soon be in need of a friend.

Providence will never start a man's job but will lend aid to him who has made a good beginning.

A small pebble always makes a big ripple.

Truth is immortal, but a lie doesn't even attain old age.

A grouch is a man who has tried life and acts as if he found it guilty.
